

JOHN PARKER NAMED LOUISIANA FLOOD DICTATOR; GREAT HUNT IS PLANNED FOR STARVING REFUGEES

300 LIVES LOST IN FLOODED AREA DECLARES HOOVER

Secretary of Commerce Calls Upon Nation To Play Part in Solving South's Problems.

HOOVER TO INSPECT LEVEE AT POYDRAS

Break Is Planned There Friday To Save New Or- leans; 10,000 Men Are Busy on Dikes.

New Orleans, April 27.—(AP)—Louisiana and New Orleans will be ruled by a civilian dictator until the Mississippi flood subsides, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover decided today after conferring the entire day with the state and city representatives on the solution of the river's worst overflow in history.

Building his organization along the lines he adopted while fighting famine and suffering in Belgium during the world war and later in food-imperished Germany and Russia, the commerce secretary appointed former Governor John M. Parker as director of the flood situation in the state.

At the same time Secretary Hoover issued a statement calling upon the nation to play a part in solving the south's problems which have resulted from the flood.

Believes Danger Averted.

Mr. Hoover, who is the personal representative of President Coolidge in the flood area and has surveyed the stricken region from Memphis, Tenn., to New Orleans, feels that the danger to New Orleans with its 400,000 population will be averted by the break in the levee at Poydras, 12 miles south of the city.

In this view Major General Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers, concurred, expressing an opinion that the flood might break a tremendous loss in western Louisiana unless immediate measures of levee strengthening can avert it.

"There is a feeling of insecurity among army engineers for the levees of western Louisiana in which protect reclaimed fertile cotton and sugar cane farm land below the water's level," Major W. H. Holcombe, army engineer in charge of the Vicksburg to New Orleans district, announced. However, Major Holcombe said, there is an army of 10,000 men working on the levees of that section with all available levee construction equipment in an endeavor to build them up to meet the onrushing flood crest. He declared that the real danger to western Louisiana was between Vicksburg, Miss., and Baton Rouge, La., below that point it being expected the flood crest will be lowered by the Poydras levee break near New Orleans.

Lesson for Nation.

"The nation should take a lesson from this flood," said Secretary Hoover. "Three hundred lives have already been lost, 200,000 persons driven from homes, more than $200,000,000 lost and the flood not yet over. The floods on the Mississippi river or its tributaries can be controlled if adequate engineering works are installed." Mr. Hoover added, evidently reflecting that the flood would result in a stronger protection in the future. "They would cost a minor part of this single loss."

"Thirty states have contributed water to this flood but no positive interest is the fact that no part of the nation can suffer a loss without."

BY ALFRED P. RECK.

New Orleans, La., April 27.—(United News.)—The levee, 14 miles south of New Orleans at Poydras, will not be cut despite permission granted to the state of Louisiana by the federal government, residents of St. Bernard parish, which would be flooded by the break, declared tonight.

And they are backing up their statement with machine-guns, shotguns, rifles and pistols.

Taken as an emergency step to save the city of New Orleans from the worst flood threat in its history, the war department approved the breaking of the Mississippi river levee at Poydras. But trappers and farmers of St. Bernard parish declare that the levee shall not be touched.

They are defying the city of New Orleans, the state of Louisiana and the federal government.

"We built these levees," a spokesman for the residents opposing the break, said.

Three Commissioners Named by Liberal Party Head Sail on United States Destroyer.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, April 27.—(United News.)—Playing now in the role of peacemaker in Latin-America, the Coolidge administration reports progress toward bringing about a settlement in Nicaragua which would be guaranteed by the United States.

This development gained additional significance because it followed closely upon the president's conciliatory speech at the United Press dinner in New York. It is regarded here as the most favorable turn in the Nicaraguan situation since the crisis last winter when it appeared for a time as if the United States might embark upon a program of military activity that would not be confined to Nicaragua alone.

This is regarded as a development in conformity to the policy of moral guardianship over the smaller republics north of Panama, announced by President Coolidge in his United Press address.

Peace negotiations between the Nicaraguan factions are being conducted through Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of war and President Coolidge's personal peacekeeper in Nicaragua. Stimson has in his possession now a peace plan proposed by Diaz, the conservative president. At Stimson's request the American destroyer Prescon has been dispatched to bring a representative of Somoza to Managua for conference. Somoza has agreed to the peace plan and the state department announced. This was taken to be a hopeful sign here.

Plans Considered.

The plan to be considered includes:

1. Both factions to disarm.
2. A native constabulary to be established under American officers.
3. American marines to continue these provisions.

BEVERIDGE RITES SET FOR FRIDAY

Former U. S. Senator Achieved National Fame as Statesman, Biog- rapher, and as Orator.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 27.—(AP)—

Death today claimed Albert Beveridge, statesman, biographer and orator.

The heart ailment, symptoms of which two weeks ago gave warning against further overexertion in preparation of what he hoped would be his masterpiece, "The Life of Abraham Lincoln," at 6:30 o'clock this morning took its toll after a period of hopeful recuperation. Intimate friends had not known his illness was serious.

Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery in Indianapolis at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. Funeral services will be conducted at the Meridian Street Methodist Episcopal church with Rev. Virgil E. Rorer and Bishop Joseph M. Francis, of the Episcopal church, Indianapolis, presiding.

Albert J. Beveridge, Jr., and his sister, Abigail, are expected to reach Indianapolis early tomorrow from the east, where they were attending school.

Many Messages Sent.

Secluded in a remote portion of the spacious but homelike mansion, Mrs. Beveridge denied herself even to close friends. But her presence had not penetrated the outpouring of condolence and sympathetic admiration of her distinguished husband which his death brought from admirers of every estate.

"In scholarship, in literature and in politics, he was a great American figure," said a message from President Coolidge. It was to the "quick, versatile and brilliant mind which differentiated him from the mass of men" that Vice President Dawes paid homage.

DEANS WILL CASE JURY IS UNABLE TO REACH VERDICT

Mistrial Declared in Case After Jury Had Delib- erated Since Tuesday Afternoon.

A mistrial was declared shortly after 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon after a jury in Judge G. H. Howard's division of Fulton superior court could not agree in deliberations in the contest to probate the will of the late Robert E. Deans, wealthy Atlanta broker, in the case brought to force probate by Frank Deans, University of Michigan student, as the only son and legal heir.

The jury received the case at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and began deliberations which continued until after 11 o'clock Tuesday night, when jurors were locked up for the night. Convening at the court chambers at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, they launched again into the case and shortly before 3 o'clock were called in by Judge Howard and a mistrial declared.

The case will now have to be re-assigned on the calendar for the May term of civil court and, in all probability, will be placed on the docket for the last week in June.

The case has been under way since Monday, April 18, testimony being concluded Monday and arguments Tuesday afternoon.

The case was brought by Frank Deans against W. O. and Charles Deans, executors of the estate of the late broker, which is valued at approximately $50,000, to set aside the will on the grounds that the broker was mentally incompetent of making a will at the time the testament was drawn; that undue influence was brought to bear upon him by relatives and that Frank Deans, as the only son and legal heir, should receive the residue of the estate.

The contest is a virtual appeal from a decision recently rendered by Ordinary Thomas H. Jeffries, of Fulton county, in which he ruled that young Deans was the legitimate son of Robert E. Deans and set aside the will.

Executors appealed the case to su- perior court in an effort to secure pro- bate of the will in their favor as drawn by the late broker. Young Deans was not mentioned in this will.

ATLANTA IS NEAR FLOOD FUND GOAL

$30,000 of City's Quota of $50,000 Subscribed as Appeals From Victims Increase.

With devastation, distress and death caused by the swollen waters of the Mississippi increasing hourly as the flood crest bears down upon New Orleans and the lower reaches of the mighty river, encouraging reports in the Atlanta Red Cross flood relief campaign Wednesday showed this city to be nearing the goal of $50,000 set as Atlanta's quota.

More than $30,000 already has been raised in the local drive for relief funds, and Red Cross officials said Wednesday night that they believe they will be able to wire Washington headquarters today that the campaign here has gone well over the top.

Every available penny is needed for the relief work, subscriptions of any amount being welcomed. Red Cross officials pointed out. The urgency of the situation was demonstrated further Wednesday by news reports of the continued spread of the flood waters and as emergency calls for food, water, clothing and rescue boats reached headquarters here.

The Atlanta Red Cross has been asked to ship a dozen outboard motors to the Greenville, Miss., flood section to be placed on rooftops so that the rescue work may be rushed. Many families' homes are under 10 feet of water, the message said.

Appeals for more funds were a sound Wednesday by the Red Cross, every Atlanta being urged to contribute freely without solicitation. Atlanta is responding nobly to the appeals, and it is believed that enough to fill out this city's quota will be in hand today, said Rodney Morrison, chairman of the Atlanta chapter of the Red Cross.

Slayer Seeks Safety Behind Woman's Skirts

WOMAN BLAMED BY JUDD GRAY

BY TOM PETTY.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
New York, April 27.—A blood-red tale branding Ruth Snyder as the wife who "elaborated" her dying husband with a sash-weight brought a gasp of horror from a packed courtroom today at the Snyder-Gray murder trial in Long Island City.

Judd Gray's confession of the crime threw the blame for the slaying of Albert Snyder squarely on the comedy shoulders of his former lover.

"She said, 'Is he dead?' I said, 'No,' she said, 'This thing has got to go through.'"

"Then I am positive that she started to behave him with this sash-weight. She poured the chloroform on the handkerchief and the wire around his neck must have been tied by her."

Shows Himself Weakling.
To himself Gray assigned the part of a dazed, distracted, terror-stricken philanthropist who was only a weakling, sexed in a web of scheming.

When District Attorney Newcombe began reading the confession, its drab phrases more forceful than those of a literary master, Gray sunk deeper in his chair. His ears and neck became vividly red and his face twitched as he sought to hide it behind his hand. Only once did he rouse and that was when Mr. Newcombe read:

COOLIDGE EVADES THIRD TERM QUIZ

White House Official De- clares Open Letter From Magazine on Issue Is Closed Incident.

Washington, April 27.—It is going to take more than a self-addressed stamped envelope to get President Coolidge to reply to open letters about a third term.

A white house official, not the official spokesman, stated today that the open letter from the Forum magazine on the third term is a closed incident.

Just left Washington politicians just where they were before. For two years they have been using all the tricks of their trade to coax from the president some definite word as to his plans for 1928. There are some veterans at that here, some of the best of the political world. Their best tricks having failed, the editor of the Forum attempted to use the open letter method which the Atlantic Monthly tried successfully on Al Smith and the religious issue. The president has received many letters asking him to state his position regarding another term but none has drawn more than the usual polite acknowledgment.

Although pressure to force a declaration from Coolidge has grown stronger recently, white house friends say there is no indication that a reply will be made at this time, if ever. All of the president's friends are certain he will be a candidate but few of them expect him to make any formal announcement of the fact. As reported by the United Press some days ago, a canvass of republican state leaders indicates that the president already has more than two-thirds of the convention vote fairly secured.

Under these circumstances he feels no necessity of saying anything.

WIFE, SCREEN "DOUBLE," HELD BY POLICE

Hollywood, April 27.—(AP)—Detective Captain Slaughter declared today investigation indicated that "gin and jealousy" caused Sarah Kerrick, screen "double" to shoot and kill her husband, Tom Kerrick, film player of western roles, at their home here early this morning.

Mrs. Kerrick is held on a police charge of murder; Joe Hunt, film extra, is booked on suspicion of murder and three others are held as material witnesses.

The dead actor's widow, according to the police, said the shot which killed Kerrick came from a pistol belonging to Hunt and held in her hand at the time. The firing of the gun was accidental, however, and occurred while she was sufficing with Kerrick and some one else, she declared. The county grand jury will open an investigation of the case tomorrow.

The detective captain declared reports indicated the shooting climaxed one of Hollywood's wildest parties at which six film actors and extras indulged in night-long drinking. The said Rodney Morrison, chairman of the Atlanta chapter of the Red Cross, who are in police custody are Henry

Tremendous as a spectacle, marvelous in the mastery of its stage, craft, intensely dramatic in almost every moment of the action, Puccini's stupendous "Turandot," sung by the Metropolitan opera company Wednesday night literally swept a vast audience off of its feet with its vibrant power and set a new high mark in local opera history by scoring one of the greatest triumphs of any previous opera season.

Handsome and debonaire Edward Johnson, singing with a resonance and penetration that revealed his mastery of his art and Florence Easton, dramatic soprano, bringing a voice that burst forth with great surges of emotional strength, scored a dual triumph that established them once and for all in the opera hall of fame. And with the big Metropolitan company, the entire ballet, with augmented forces in the east, with an orchestra under the direction of Tullio Serafin rising to supreme heights of harmony, the production of "Turandot" provided an evening which will never be forgotten by every person fortunate enough to be present.

Puccini's score was a revelation to close students of opera developments. In massive effects, tremendous chords.

Three Nabbed In Bunco Game At Loew Grand

Ticket Seller, Doorman, Por- ter Arrested on Charge of Larceny.

Charged with working a ticket "knockdown" game by virtue of which some $3,000 was misappropriated, Mrs. Hatty Totty, a cashier; James Stroud, ticket seller; and Porter McClain, porter, employed at the Loew's Grand theater, were arrested by Pinkerton detectives early Wednesday afternoon on specific warrants of larceny after trust sworn out before Municipal Judge Luther Z. Rosser by T. H. James, manager of the playhouse.

In lieu of $2,500 bond, each was remanded to the Fulton tower. According to T. V. Wagoner, Atlanta superintendent of the Pinkerton detective agency, who made the arrests, the three employees signed complete confessions after being questioned last Monday, but were arrested Wednesday.

The confessions, according to Wagoner, related how Stroud, the doorman, would go through the motion of treating in two each ticket handed him, and of placing one stub in the receiving box while returning the other to the patron. But frequently Stroud would not sever the ticket, but would hand to the patron a stub given him by a patron who preceded him. Wagoner said, then Stroud would surreptitiously slip the unbroken ticket to Porter McClain, who, in turn, would carry it back to the box office, where it could be sold again, the detective said.

The "knockdown" system charged in the warrant was practiced over a period of some 10 months. Detective Wagoner said he reached its peak only last month. Noting the apparent irregularities some time ago, Wagoner said he notified the New York office and was instructed to carry on a complete investigation. "Plants" and minute check-ups revealed the system, he declared.

Last Saturday, Wagoner stated, 224 tickets in the stub box had no corresponding marker. Pinkerton operatives who entered the theater were handed checks whose numbers did not correspond with their original tickets.

Stroud is said to have returned $920 and Mrs. Totty $78 since signing confessions.

BY GERALD P. OVERTON.

Memphis, Tenn., April 27.—(United News.)—Fearing that thousands of persons, marooned on house-tops, levees and in trees, may be perishing for lack of food and shelter, Henry M. Baker, head of the Red Cross flood relief organization, has ordered a mammoth rescue hunt to get under way as soon as possible in the flooded territory from Illinois southward to Louisiana.

More than 100 coast guard boats have been ordered to proceed with all haste from the Gulf of Mexico and the Great Lakes to the flood regions. Possibility of great numbers of persons still stranded in the flood regions was borne out Wednesday when Miss Nell Williams, a Red Cross worker, piloting a gasoline launch, discovered 1,000 persons stranded on the levee near Red Fork, Ark. They had been overlooked by all rescue crews, and their plight was serious. They had been for days without shelter, with scant food and with contaminated drinking water.

Danger Is Grave.

"There is a grave possibility of a serious emergency situation developing in the lower Louisiana area," Baker said.

"The Red Cross is concentrating what it believes will be sufficient supplies and personnel at strategic points, especially New Orleans and Harrisonburg, to meet any crisis that may develop."

"Every effort is being made to anticipate developments and be ready to cope with emergencies downstream as they arise."

Baker sent T. J. McCarthy, Red

Assuming The Truth of This, What Are You Going to Do?

Some scientist, who either knows what he is talking about or assumes that no one will have the patience to check up and see if he is spoofing, asserts that six million germs have been found attached to the body of a single house fly.

Now who wants even one fly dipping into his soup, sipping at his syrup, or trailing around over his bald pate? Answer: No one.

Well, now is the time to get busy, before the pesky things get too plentiful. Screen everything to keep them out; turn their breeding places into fly cemeteries, and have on hand an efficient exterminator.

Again we call your attention to the advertisements in The Constitution. You will find the announcements of screen manufacturers and of dealers who handle effective exterminators.

BEVERIDGE DIES AT INDIANA HOME

In 1911, after 12 years of service, had been divided between politics and literary endeavor, had not been in rugged health for some time. It was not until April 14, upon return from a visit to Chicago, that he called Dr. William Thayer, of Johns Hopkins university, and Dr. Charles F. Emerson, of Indianapolis.

Quiet Is Ordered.

They prescribed complete quiet and relaxation for heart symptoms, which they regarded as alarming but not critical. Obeying orders despite a restless, energetic nature that chafed at inactivity, Beveridge convalesced rapidly, and today's relapse came as a surprise. He was 64 years old.

Beveridge's talent inclined in three directions. In writing, statesmanship and oratory he gained rank alongside the great men of each field. Major political success came when he was comparatively young, and in the senate he displayed a grasp of domestic and international problems that for two decades gave him the status of a sage in the field of political economy.

He was writing "The Life of Lincoln" with the hope that it would be comparable with or even superior to his "Life of John Marshall," which in 1916 had brought him prominence as a biographer. Excellence in oratory was the first talent in his complex to assert itself in the swift ascent from a humble station to national distinction.

In addition to his biographical works he also produced many essays and treatises on involved political, religious and economic subjects. They ranged from "The Russian Advance," 1903, to "The Bible as Good Reading," 1905, and "The State and the Nation," 1924, finding time in 1918 to do a bit of war correspondence in more than one-fourth of the time and more than one-half the expense, officers stated that the figures of Lee, Davis and Jackson would be carved before the next annual meeting.

DIES AT WORK ON HIS BOOK

ALBERT JEREMIAH BEVERIDGE

Europe he wrote "What Is Back of the War," following an interview with the German kaiser. The volume took little heed of the propaganda of the day, and after the entrance of the United States on the allied side it came into temporary disfavor.

The many paradoxes in Beveridge's personality were illustrated aptly by his checkered political career. In his progressive principles he was an iconoclast. An outstanding advocate of popular election of United States senators he failed twice to obtain the popular vote requisite to election. A pioneer for child labor legislation, he was on the other hand a stickler for a high protective tariff. Though not popularly regarded as a conservative in political aspects, he was an ultra-conservative when any proposal involved departure from fundamental principles.

Active Political Career.

These divergent views on many questions, coupled with the additional complexity of championing the rights of the common people in public actions, being every inch a patrician personally, brought swift fluctuations in his political fortunes. An obscure candidate for senator in 1890, the legislature seized upon him as a compromise choice. Thirty-seven years old, he made his debut in the senate during a period of strife in political matters. A distinguished career in that body closed, he championed the Roosevelt cause in 1912 running unsuccessfully for governor of Indiana, and two years later, falling short of the senatorship. In 1916 he affiliated again with the "stand pat" branch of the party, touring the country for Charles Evans Hughes, but scarcely reinstating himself in the good graces of Hoosier republican leaders.

The pen was laid aside again in 1922. In a sanguinary primary battle with Postmaster General New he gained victory by virtue of an old-fashioned stump campaign. In the fall election, however, the personal following which had given him a decision within his own party was inadequate to the task of turning back the late Samuel M. Ralston, and the latter gained the senatorial seat.

The world court controversy almost brought him again into the political arena, but in the primary which was held in the 1926 primary when it was apparent that the views of Senators Watson and Robinson coincided with his own.

Though in some aspects a typical Hoosier, Beveridge was not an Indiana by birth. His family moved to Illinois shortly after he was born in Ohio, and in his later life he divided his time between Indianapolis and a summer home and literary retreat at Beverly Farms, Mass.

DECATUR CITIZENS TO PUSH PROPOSAL OF "SEE GEORGIA"

Decatur, Ga., April 27.—Plans for the furtherance of the "See Georgia" week sponsored by the Decatur Chamber of Commerce, will be made Friday night when local citizens will meet to form a "Committee of 100," which body will outline the celebration to the state. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the city hall.

"See Georgia" week was proposed to the Decatur chamber by Charles D. McKinney and Governor Walker will be asked to designate June 11 to 19 as the week when parties will form an "visit some other section of the state outside their immediate community, the object being to acquaint the citizenship with the state's resources.

Chamber officials state that a general response is coming in from over Georgia to the "See Georgia" suggestion.

GAS STATION ROBBERS GET LONG SENTENCES

Pleading guilty Wednesday to robbery of five filling stations, Hammond Bentley and Irving Ware, negroes, were sentenced to serve from 6 to 15 years on the chain gang by Judge John D. Humphries, in Fulton superior court.

The negroes were arrested by City Detectives Ford and McGee at Bentley's home on Piedmont avenue, where officers found a pistol which was identified as one which was stolen, several hundred pennies in wrappers and $90 in currency. Under grilling they confessed to the series of holdups.

Pleas were entered shortly after the Fulton county grand jury Wednesday morning returned indictments charging them with robbery and within a few hours the two were en route to a Fulton county road gang.

The negroes also confessed to the robbery of a grocery at 241 Fort street, in which they got $51.

RABBI HIRMES LEAVES TO ATTEND CEREMONY

In order to represent the Jews of Atlanta, Rabbi A. P. Hermes, of the Ahavath Achim synagogue, departed for New York Wednesday to take part in the laying of a corner stone of the new $5,000,000 Yeshiva seminary May 1.

The combined elementary school and college, dedicated to the education of orthodox rabbis, teachers and lay leaders, will be the largest of its type in the world.

The seminary was founded 40 years ago. Alumni in all states of the union number among the foremost leaders in Jewry.

The new unit provides accommodation for 1,500 students.

MUSIC WEEK CONCERT PROGRAM ARRANGED

Combining the observance of National Music week and National Better Homes week, 12 concerts will be given next week by the music week committee in homes prepared by the better homes committee. The concerts, all of which have been arranged by Mrs. Theodore Moran-Stephens, musical chairman of the woman's division of the chamber of commerce, will be given, one each evening in each of the two homes.

In every case the program will be directed by a prominent Atlanta musician. At home No. 1, 891 Vedado way, the concerts will be conducted by Mrs. A. R. Burt, Mrs. Paul K. McCash, Mrs. S. R. Christie, Jr., Miss Regina Urzar, Miss Alva Bak and Miss Frances Chesebrough. The programs at home No. 2, 57 Howard street, will be supervised by Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Mrs. J. L. Jackson, Miss Frances Chesebrough, Mrs. W. M. Rainey, Mrs. Norwood LeSueur and Miss Clara Harden.

These concerts represent only one phase of the observance of music week as planned by the woman's division. A large number of cooperating agencies already have been announced by Mrs. Moran-Stephens, and this now is supplemented by several other individuals and organizations in arranging special programs in celebration of the week. Additional names include Mrs. Bonita Crowe, of the Grace Methodist church; Miss Grace J. Harlee, of the Decatur Presbyterian church; Mrs. Victor Clarke, of the Peachtree Christian church; Rev. Horace R. Chase, of St. John's Episcopal church, College Park; Dr. D. Witherspoon Dodge, of the Central Congregational church; Dr. Charles A. Shalom, Jr., organist both for the First Presbyterian church and for the Jewish temple; Mrs. Armand Carroll, Miss Julia Oliver Eckford and Mrs. Norwood LeSueur, prominent piano teachers.

Practically all music companies of the city also are giving active support to music week.

Rome To Celebrate Completion of Paving Down-Town Streets

Constitution Bureau.
Rome, Ga., April 27.—Rome people will officially celebrate the completion of the main paving projects, according to arrangements begun by the chamber of commerce. May 9 has been tentatively selected as the date for the celebration and the program is now being arranged.

The plan is that citizens of Rome gather in the business section of the city one night when a program will be presented in the streets which will properly celebrate the completion of the paving of Broad street, Second avenue and other thoroughfares.

Prizes are planned to be given to the merchants with the most originally dressed show windows, to the person wearing the most original masquerade costume and for the best stunt. Other plans will be announced later.

Plan Bridge Opening.
With a large number of automobiles from Rome already signed up to attend the opening Sunday of the Cherokee Memorial bridge over the Coosa river, between Center and Leesburg, Ala., on the Rome-Gadsden highway, and with arrangements made for the American Legion drum and bugle corps and a chamber of commerce float as special features, it appears that this city will make an impressive show at the opening of the new bridge dedicated to the memory of the world war veterans.

Barry Wright, of Rome, and ex-Governor Brandon, of Alabama, will make the principal addresses.

COVINGTON VETERANS HEAR DR. DEMPSEY

Covington, Ga., April 27.—(Special).—The Covington chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy entertained at a luncheon at the library Tuesday in honor of the Confederate veterans of Newton county.

The veterans and organizations marched to the cemetery, where the Confederate graves were decorated and taps sounded, and afterwards exercises were held in the Methodist church.

Mrs. W. C. Clark delivered medals to the winners of the high school contest and Mrs. W. Trox Bankston presented the Confederate crosses to C. J. Tankersley and W. B. Hurst.

J. L. Skinner, Jr., world war veteran, will receive the service cross.

Rev. A. W. Rees, of Emory academy, introduced Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, orator of the day.

GOODWILL FLIERS REST IN SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., April 27.—(AP)—The good will fliers are resting today. The visitors are being entertained in various ways by Savannahans. At 2 o'clock this afternoon they were the guests of the Clatham county commissioners at a luncheon at the country home of Judge Arthur Solomon.

They are to leave Savannah early tomorrow morning, north bound.

Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning the entire personnel was busily engaged in the fueling of the planes in Thunderbolt river. The United States engineering department is in charge of the fueling.

Following the luncheon given by Mayor R. M. Hull in their honor yesterday afternoon at Banquet hotel, the fliers returned to the city and later in the afternoon reviewed the Memorial-day parade.

RITES AT COVINGTON FOR JOHN HUTCHINS

Covington, Ga., April 27.—(Special).—The body of John Hutchins, former Covington man, who died Sunday night in the Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C., after an illness of six months, reached Covington Wednesday afternoon.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Frank P. Hutchins, of Covington; two sisters, Mrs. H. W. Robertson, of Macon, and Mrs. F. B. Dodd, of Covington.

Funeral services were held at the home of his mother, on Emory street, at 4:30 o'clock, followed by interment in West View cemetery, Covington.

Macon School Wins First Prize in State Improvement Contest

Athens, Ga., April 27.—(Special). First honors in the community improvement contest which has been a regular part of the work of the departments of vocational agriculture in the high schools of the state during the present school year, were won by the Lanier High School for Boys, Macon, Ga., according to an announcement made today by L. M. Sheffer, state supervisor of agricultural education. District prizes were won by: Epworth seminary, Wrens high, Easton and Phenix high schools, and the Hopewell Consolidated school, Mitchell county.

The 46 boys in the vocational agricultural department of the Lanier High school, under the direction of their instructor, W. H. Sorrells, piled up a score of 265.188, or an average for each boy of 5.771 points on the basis of the score card for the contest, which was prepared by the teachers of vocational agriculture at their conference last summer. In recognition of the record made by these boys a banner will be presented to this department by the Georgia state board for vocational education, and a pennant will be given to the winning school in each district.

This contest was carried on as a means of securing the greatest possible interest on the part of the boys in the vocational agricultural departments in their agricultural work and in the improvement of their homes and the practices employed on their farms. Fifty items, consisting of the most part of improvement activities that the boys might carry on at their homes, formed the basis for the contest.

A compilation of the results shows that the vocational boys have built

DEKALB COUNTY VOTES ON TAX EXEMPTION

Decatur, Ga., April 27.—(Special). Unofficial reports on the election held in DeKalb county today on the question of exempting new industries from taxation for a period of five years indicate that the vote was overwhelmingly in favor of the exemption, although a light vote was polled. The ballots will be consolidated at noon Thursday at the office of V. S. Morgan, ordinary.

Polls were opened in the leading precincts throughout the county and while the vote was reported as light, indications were that the opposition vote was negligible.

The election was held following its recommendation by the DeKalb county grand jury and follows the enactment of a state law allowing counties and cities to vote upon the tax exemption question.

Hot Coppers Costly.

Martin's Ferry, Ohio.—Fred Latham, a newlywed, found that red-hot coppers are expensive. For tossing red-hot pennies to children who attempted to serenade him and his bride he was fined $10 in court.

81 hog houses, 62 poultry houses, that they have planted 2,634 fruit and nut trees, and set out 9,350 ornamental shrubs. They have read 50,000 agricultural articles not included in their class assignments, and added 18,946 agricultural bulletins to their home libraries.

Flexibility Means Comfort

IN DESCRIBING shoes, the word "flexible" may mean anything or nothing. But it certainly means comfort in the Cantilever shoe.

In walking, the foot can move and bend almost as freely as the hand in your glove. The Cantilever shoe arch is made pliable, not concealing the usual piece of stiff metal; though giving the support necessary for tired muscles.

Other comfort features are the roomy toe, snug heel and instep; special heel and sole, making correct walking easy. The men's Cantilever lasts give unusual comfort. Good looking, besides.

Once chilly—Now
cheery and warm

Today home owners are enjoying comfort undreamed of a few years ago. No longer is a miserable, chilly house considered unavoidable. Rooms that were once cold and dreary are now turned to rooms of cheery warmth by the New Improved Moncrief.

Leading Contractors, Architects, and Builders realize the importance of a good heating system and are specifying the New Improved Moncrief on all their jobs. They know that modern comfort requirements demand such a furnace, and while the Moncrief costs a trifle more, quicker sales and satisfied home owners more than make up the slight difference in initial cost.

Comfort and economy are doubly assured by Moncrief's policy of installing an oversize furnace, and Moncrief's written guarantee of 70 degrees in even the coldest weather goes with every installation.

CHARTER VOTE SET FOR PRIMARY DATE

Coincident with a ruling Wednesday by City Attorney James L. Mayson that advocates of the new city manager charter of Atlanta could withdraw the petition filed several days with the city clerk and thus avoid a special election, the ordinance committee of city council voted to allow the election May 25, the date of the city democratic primary.

Pro charter forces at first asked that the election be placed on the primary ballot, but when council and the city democratic executive committee agreed, they took the position that the petition for a special election had been filed and that they were powerless to withdraw it without the consent of the 3,515 signers.

Another compromise battle was seen Wednesday following action of the ordinance committee in fixing the date of the special election simultaneous with that of the primary, when C. J. Russell, chairman of the new charter, offered a paper to council calling the special election May 17.

Unless the petition is withdrawn council is powerless to place the election on the primary ballot, but it can fix it on the same date and have the same poll tax and places, members of the ordinance committee contended inasmuch as the paper filed with the city clerk really does "not become a petition until it is placed on the ballot," which was signed by at least 10 per cent of the registered voters in the election in which it was taken.

Predictions Wednesday were that Mr. Russell will fight the attempt to hold the election on the primary date when the matter is brought to council Monday for consideration. Russell and William E. Hartfield, principal opponents of the new form of government, are on the ordinance committee, but Russell did not attend the session.

Mr. Mayson's ruling on whether the petition could be withdrawn, follows: "My opinion is that the agent or parties who file a petition initiating, for instance, the pending petition providing for a vote of the people upon a proposed charter, can be withdrawn by the parties or agent in charge of same and who filed it with the clerk of council."

Members of council pointed out that although council sets May 25 as the date of the election, a special election can not be avoided unless the petition is withdrawn. They contended further that pro-charter forces are forcing a special election to permit negroes to vote in it, and that advocates never intended that the charter proposal should be placed on the primary ballot.

The new charter was defended at a meeting Tuesday night by H. L. Greene, who declared that anti-charter speakers have attempted to show that the waterworks could be mortgaged and the title to it thus pass from the hands of the city. He denied that this could be done, saying the proposed new charter "fully protects the waterworks."

Judge Russell Favors
Dahlonega as Site
For Mining School

Dahlonega, Ga., April 27.—(Special.)—Chief Justice Richard B. Russell, of the Georgia supreme court and chairman of the board of trustees of the University of Georgia, was the main speaker here Tuesday at a Memorial day exercise sponsored by the local chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Georgia council of the North Georgia Agricultural college. After a musical program by the college band, the speaker was introduced by Colonel R. H. Baker.

During his address, Judge Russell sounded the keynote for the establishment of a mining school, second to none, at this branch of the state university. He said that it was his belief that Dahlonega, located as it is in the heart of the Georgia gold fields and in a rich mineral belt, offered the best site in America for the teaching of mining on a large scale. He declared that in his opinion the greatest field of usefulness open to the youth of Georgia was through technical training, to learn to utilize the vast natural resources with which the state is endowed.

SECOND BAPTIST WOMEN WILL MEET

The Business Women's league of the Second Baptist church will hold its regular monthly meeting Sunday, May 1, at 3:30 o'clock in the main Sunday school auditorium of the church. Features of the program will be a talk on "Christian Service" by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, and selections rendered on the harp by Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs.

Circle II of the church will be in charge of the program, with Miss Elsie Kuetner as chairman and Miss Lolla Belle Sasset as co-chairman.

ESCAPED FORGER RETURNED TO CELL

After a day's freedom Roy Banks, convicted forger, who escaped Monday from the Webster county penitentiary, was back in jail Wednesday following his recapture in Atlanta, V. L. Stanley, secretary of the state prison commission, announced.

Banks was convicted in Fulton superior court and sentenced to from six to seven years for forgery. The break for liberty will mean his serving the maximum time for the offense, it was stated.

FUGITIVES FROM STATE TO BE BROUGHT BACK

Requisition for two fugitives from justice were executed Wednesday by Governor Clifford Walker at the request of solicitors general in the Rome and middle judicial circuits to Georgia.

The return of Archie Warner, who is in jail at Bartow, Fla., was sought on one of the requisitions. Warner is wanted in Toombs county on a charge of larceny of an automobile.

The other requisition was for J. M. Patterson, who is in Tennessee, and who is wanted in Walker county on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Sacco-Vanzetti May Be Granted Life Sentences

Boston, April 27.—(United News.) Executive intervention in the Sacco-Vanzetti case was foreshadowed tonight by action of Governor Alvin T. Fuller in granting a respite of the death sentence of Celestino Madieros until July 10.

Madieros, under sentence of death for the murder of a Wrentham bank cashier, has confessed that he and some Providence gangsters were guilty of the double murder and robbery at South Benintree in 1920 for which Sacco and Vanzetti were tried and convicted and sentenced to death in the week of July 10.

While Madieros' confession was not admitted by Judge Thayer when he denied Sacco and Vanzetti a second trial, his story is considered important in any further investigation of the Sacco-Vanzetti case. The governor's action tonight, therefore, is chiefly significant because of the bearing it has on that case.

Governor's Reasons.
In announcing the respite, Governor Fuller said:

"While no formal petition for a respite is before me I have reason to believe one will be filed in the near future by either of these men or counsel in their behalf. Such a petition would cause an investigation by the executive which would include one Celestino Madieros.

"In order that the investigation shall not be hampered by the execution of Madieros I have decided to grant him a respite upon the recommendation of Attorney General Arthur K. Reading."

At a special meeting tonight the governor's council approved the respite by unanimous vote.

MITCHELL ELECTED BY POWER COMPANY

William E. Mitchell, vice president in charge of operations of the Alabama Power company, of Birmingham, was elected vice president and general manager of the Georgia Power company at a meeting Wednesday of the directors. He succeeds W. H. Taylor, who resigned to become vice president of the United Gas Improvement company, of Philadelphia, and will assume his new duties about May 1 in Atlanta. Four new directors also were named.

Mr. Mitchell is a native of Massachusetts and a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as an electrical engineer. He was with the General Electric company for two years and spent six years in Brazil in power development work and as electrical engineer for the Bahia Tramway, Light and Power company of Brazil.

He went to the Alabama Power company in 1912 as an electrical engineer, and in 1924 was made vice president in charge of operations. During the war he was commissioner in charge of the Anniston Steel company, Anniston, Ala.

The four new directors are Billups Phinizy, Athens, Ga., president of the Southern Mutual Insurance company; John M. Graham, Rome, Ga., president of the National City bank of Rome; George E. Patterson, Macon, executive vice president of the Fourth National bank of Macon, and J. Leonard Rountree, Summitt, Ga., president of the People's bank of Summitt and a large lumber and naval stores operator.

governor's council approved the respite by unanimous vote.

DECATUR SCHOOL PUPILS TO STAGE PICTURE EXHIBIT

Ninth grade pupils of Decatur Junior High school, in conjunction with the Parent-Teacher association of the school, will hold an art exhibit from 2 to 7 o'clock on the afternoons of April 28, 29 and 30, in the school building. Mrs. J. B. Hosmer will lecture each afternoon at 5 o'clock on "Appreciation of Art."

There will be on display 200 photographs of masterpieces of art. The object of the exhibition is to create and foster an appreciation of good pictures and to secure some good pictures for the walls of the classroom, it was said.

GOVERNOR SANCTIONS EMERGENCY ELECTION

A special election to fill the vacancy created by the death of D. S. Griggs, representative-elect of Terrell county, was authorized Wednesday in an order signed by Governor Clifford Walker.

L. C. Hoyt, of Dawson, ordinary of Terrell county, was given authority to call the election. Griggs was the seventh representative in the legislature to die since the election last fall.

HAPEVILLE MAN HEADS ROYAL ARCH MASONS

Macon, Ga., April 27.—(AP)—In the annual election of officers today of the grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons of Georgia in annual session here, W. Frank Wells, of Hapeville, Ga., was elected grand high priest, succeeding Hugh W. Taylor, Cuthbert.

Other officers elected were Rev. John Swain, Sale City, grand king; W. B. Gresham, Fort Gaines, grand scribe; J. T. Clarke, Augusta, grand treasurer; E. A. McLean, Macon, re-elected grand secretary; W. A. Simons, Rome, grand chaplain; Charles L. Bass, Atlanta, grand captain of host; C. P. Taylor, Atlanta, grand principal journeyman; Joe A. Moore, Milledgeville, royal arch captain; Charles McCall, Macon, master of the third veil; John B. Russell, Fitzgerald, master of the second veil; F. A. Johnson, Atlanta, master of the first veil; Lee Wages, Macon, sentinel.

The finance committee donated $1,000 to the Masonic educational fund. Burt S. Lee, of Missouri, past grand high priest of that state, was among the speakers today.

This afternoon the order of high priest degree was conferred by a special team and tonight the Grand High Priest association held its annual meeting.

The chapter will convene again tomorrow for its final session.

University Selects Speakers To Appear In Triangular Debate

Athens, Ga., April 27.—(Special.) In competitive trouts held at the University of Georgia four speakers were selected to represent that institution in the intercollegiate triangular debate to be held Monday, May 2. Those selected from the university are Herschel Parham, Athens; Robert Patterson, Athens; Isaac K. May, Covington, and G. A. Pirkle, Buford. The other universities participating are the University of Alabama and the University of South Carolina.

The affirmative team representing the University of Alabama will clash with the negative team from the University of South Carolina at Athens. At the same time, the affirmative and negative teams from the University of Georgia will debate in Columbia, S. C., and Tuscaloosa, Ala., respectively. All debates thereby will be held on neutral ground.

The subject to be discussed in the three debates will be, "Resolved, that compulsion military training in the American colleges and universities should be abolished."

Educators Meet.
The state board of education will hold its quarterly meeting at 10 o'clock this morning in the office of Fort E. Land, state superintendent of schools. Governor Clifford Walker is chairman of the board. Routine matters will be considered.

The United States district court, and they will leave today in custody of deputy marshals for the cities where they are wanted.

F. W. Huertas, alias Frederick W. Huertas, is to be sent to Charleston, S. C., to face mail fraud charges, while Moses Bernstein will go to Jacksonville, Fla., to answer to charges of impersonating a federal officer in Lake City, Fla.

IDEAL WEATHER CONDITIONS SEEN FOR REST OF WEEK

Festivities during the remainder of grand opera week will be under ideal weather conditions, in the opinion of C. F. von Herrmann, the local weather chief.

Clear skies, brilliant sunshine and even temperatures are scheduled for today, in accordance with a precedent here to supply the Metropolitan Opera company with the best possible weather. Of the past 10 annual Atlanta opera weeks, each has been marked by unusually fine weather, according to bureau records.

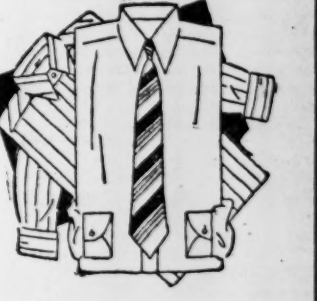

Temperature extremes on Wednesday ranged from 56, recorded during the early morning, to 80 in mid-afternoon, while today's high mark should touch above 80, according to Mr. von Herrmann.

"TURANDOT" THRILLS OPERA AUDIENCE

blazing effects and clanging and clashing climaxes it surpassed even the music of Wagner in its immensity. There were booms of drums, clangor of cymbal, sharp blasts of the brasses and strident chords that at times almost drowned the audience yet all rendered with such remarkable harmony that the general effect simply astounded the amazed auditors.

CABLE

Piano Company
84 N. Broad St.

Every emotion of this great drama of sustained emotions was literally forced on the audience and the music in every note told the gripping tale handed down in the ancient Chinese legend.

To sing such music in such a striking role as "Turandot" requires first of all a voice of vast power and powerful dramatic interpretation and Florence Easton provided the voice. Seidman has such singing in such a spectacle been heard in Atlanta. Equally impressive was the work of Edward Johnson who not only sang with inspiration but at times acted with the grace and strength of a Maugham. To add a third voice which differed so in its tones as to provide a marked contrast with the vibrance of Easton's ringing notes was the soft voice of Naunette Guilford, soprano, who shared some of the honors of the evening with the two featured stars.

With such singing and with such a massive spectacle, which in the gorgeous colorings of costume, in the massiveness of environments, in scene and with as many people on the stage as they once used in staging such spectacles as John Robinson's "King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba" there is little wonder that the audience left the auditorium Wednesday night bursting with enthusiasm over the unparalleled success of this opera.

Honors Shared.

While Easton, Johnson and Guilford sang the heavier roles several other members of the company appeared with fine effect. Pavel Ludikar as "Timur" father of "The Unknown Prince," the role played by Johnson, gave a finished touch to his work that won bursts of approval. His dirge sung at the death of the little slave girl "Liu," the part sung by Miss Guilford, was particularly effective. Max Alglase was strong and robust as "The Emperor Altoun," while Giuseppe DeLuca, Angela Bada and Alfio Tedesco in the three grotesque roles of "Ping," "Tang" and "Pong," presented some odd pantomime and also provided some of the close harmony, little of which appeared in runnings of dramatic suspense which permeated the whole score. George Cebanovsky as "The Mandarin" and Louise Lerch and Dorothea Fleiter as two maids, gave finished touches to minor roles.

No much drama is found in "Turandot" that every note and every gesture has a vital meaning to the plot and it was with only such artistry as Florence Easton and Edward Johnson used that this powerful dramatic tension was sustained until the very last note of the opera. "Turandot" with all its drama, and with the touch of tragedy in the death of the little slave girl, ended happily with love triumphing over all.

At the end of each of the scenes Miss Easton and Mr. Johnson were repeatedly called before the curtain

Three Leading Sopranos in Tonight's Opera

Three of the most popular sopranos of the Metropolitan Opera company will sing leading roles in that organization's production of "Mignon" to be sung at the auditorium tonight. They are Marion Talley (upper center), the Kansas City girl who has created such a sensation in music circles; Lucrezia Bori (upper right), and Louise Hunter (bottom). They will sing the roles of Filina, Mignon and Frederic, respectively. Beniamino Gigli, tenor (upper left), will sing the principal male role of Wilhelm.

while Miss Guilford, Ludikar and others came in for much approbation. Miss Easton was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers at the end of the second act.

There will be other high marks scored in successive seasons of opera in Atlanta, there will be other spectacles presented here and there will be other personal triumphs scored by stars but it is safe to say that few will ever eclipse the success won by "Turandot" as offered in all its immensity Wednesday night.

Presented for the first time in Atlanta and for one of the only times outside of the Metropolitan opera house in New York, this massive spectacle was revealed with the high success predicted for it by opera lovers who had witnessed previous productions and fulfilled the anticipations of the enthusiasts almost to a degree of satiety.

In "Turandot" Florence Easton, versatile soprano, sang her first role of the season this glorious finish, while Edward Johnson, noted American tenor, who was brought here by the Metropolitan Opera company particularly to sing the role of "The Unknown Prince," scored a real triumph in his Atlanta debut. Both were accorded great ovations by the audience.

Success of "Turandot" scored in such unstinted measure augured well for the success of Ambrosio Thomas Mignon, another one of this season's outstanding productions, which will be offered tonight with a cast which will include the always popular Lucrezia Bori in the title role; Marion Talley in the role of Mignon; and Beniamino Gigli in his great role of Frederic; Louise Hunter, dainty soprano, playing the part of a dashing young blade, and Leon Rothert, Angela Bada, James Wolfe and Louis D'Angelo.

Tonight also will witness one of the most gorgeous social presentations given by the Atlanta Music Festival association in honor of the opera stars and distinguished guests when the spectacle "A Venetian Night," will be staged on the Biltmore hotel terrace. This event will be under direction of Carlo Edwards and several great dancing numbers will be staged by the corps de ballet of the Metropolitan Opera company by Rita Deleporte and including Mae Motovska, Mollie Friedenthal, Madeline Lewick, Victoria Prosser and other stars and dancers.

Wednesday's outstanding social feature was the old-fashioned southern barbecue staged at the Druid Hills Golf club with the opera stars and other members of the opera company mingling with distinguished opera guests and prominent social leaders of Atlanta.

"Turandot" brought more color scenery than any of the preceding operas. With the scenes placed in the ancient China, legends and fairy opportunity to form a background of grotesque dragons, griffins, unicorns and other legendary monsters was given. The picturesque Chinese costumes in all hues and tints of silk, and with garish primary colors gave the scene a bizarre touch.

Puccini's music reveals with its tones the unfolding of the plot almost as well as if it was explained in English words. The legend, centering around the beautiful and alluring Princess Turandot, is carried forward by the music with sustained drama and builds up with unusual dramatic skill and action to the happy climax where, in the Princess Turandot finally allows love to break down her vow of vengeance handed down by countless ancestors and reveals her enfolded in the arms of the "Unknown Prince," whose stratagems have won her heart and her consent to wed.

The crowd that enjoyed "Turandot" was large and included a distinguished list of guests from numerous southern cities. The boxes around the great horseshoe was filled with people whose names almost form the social register of Atlanta, while the arena seats contained many happy parties of those who came to Atlanta for opera as the guests of Atlanta friends.

Between acts the boxes presented brilliant social scenes while the lobbies and foyers swarmed with people. Lawrence Tibbett, Giovanni Martinelli, Rosa Ponselle and Ezio Pinza, who scored such a triumph Tuesday night in "The Love of Three Kings" were centers of interest in box parties. Other stars noted in the box parties were Marion Talley, who arrived Wednesday accompanied by her mother and sister, Beniamino Gigli, who was acclaimed as one of the heroes of "La Traviata" Monday night, also was seen in the boxes.

In "Mignon" tonight Lucrezia Bori will appear for the first time this season in Atlanta and will have numerous opportunities. This opera possesses a wealth of melody which appeals to the layman and one of her most pleasing numbers is "Knowest Thou the Land?" Marion Talley, the young Kansas City girl, will have a great opportunity in the role of Filina, singing the dashing "Polonaise." Gigli will sing "Pure As a Flower" and other appealing songs.

Opera experts are enthusiastic over the program for Friday which will include Richard Wagner's "Lohengrin" in the afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock promptly and Verdi's "La Forza del Destino" Friday night promptly at 8 o'clock. They point out that Walter Kirchoff, foremost German tenor, will make his Atlanta debut in "Lohengrin" and predict he will duplicate the storm of success he won in the same role in New York.

The more statement that "The Force of Destiny" is a Verdi opera, is enough to assure the general public that it will be full of melody from start to finish. It brings its great duets "Swear in This Hour" and "My Secret Thou Betrayed," which are to be sung by Giovanni Martinelli, tenor, and Maria Basilio, distinguished soprano.

In "The Force of Destiny" there are beautiful dance numbers staged by the corps de ballet, headed by Miss Rita Deleporte and other members of that organization. Conductor Louis Hasselmans will wield the baton for the first time here this season in "Mignon" while Giuseppe Lamboschek will take charge of the orchestra in the production of "Lohengrin" Friday afternoon. Verdi's beautiful score in "The Force of Destiny" will be directed by Vincenzo Bellini.

"Roméo and Juliet," Saturday afternoon, and "Madama Butterfly," Sunday night, will complete the local season. With four operas offered in two days a large crowd of visitors from other cities will be on hand and reservations already made assure an unusually large crowd for these four productions.

How do you feel at 5 o'clock?

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength

In these days of keen competition, the people who are run-down, quickly fall behind—while their healthy, vigorous rivals, who comply with laws of Nature and keep their blood supplied rich and nourished, get ahead. Good blood is health's foundation. When your blood is poor, you are dull, weak, slow and pale—your brain cannot work effectively.

But you glow with health when your blood is rich and strong! You look vigorous! You fairly sparkle with winning magnetism!

Don't despair if others are forging ahead of you. S.S.S. will help you. It will bring back your appetite; will help Nature build up your red blood corpuscles. This is how S.S.S. improves the processes by which the body is nourished. S.S.S. is time-tried and reliable, and is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality. It is made from the roots of fresh berries and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

GEORGIAN AMONG VICTIMS AS THREE MEN DROWN IN CAR

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 27.—(AP) Three young men employed by the Southern Bell Telephone company at Deland were drowned last night near here when their automobile turned over in a fater-filled ditch. They were identified this morning as J. C. Wells, Milton, Fla.; A. L. Novell, Colquitt, Ga., and E. Z. Montgomery, La Grange, Ky.

Deland motorists returning from Daytona Beach last night discovered the bodies under the overturned car submerged in several feet of water. Daytona Beach police were notified and the bodies brought to this place. As far as known none of the men were married.

ITALIAN LINER RIPS HER SIDE IN NAPLES BAY

Naples, April 27.—Crashing into the breakwater as she entered the harbor here the liner Colombo of the Italian Navigation company, ripped a hole in her side and listed heavily to starboard. Smaller craft hastened to her assistance and rescued the passengers. None was injured.

The Colombo was towed to drydock where inspection showed that the damage had been more serious than anticipated. A cargo of naphtha which had been stored in the hold was a complete loss. The Colombo is registered from Naples. It is listed as of 10,017-ton capacity.

ALL the forces at our command, all the resources of all our trained buyers are concentrated in this supreme effort which results in the most remarkable values that this store, with the help of Macy's, can procure.

The merchandise and the values offered during this week, beginning Saturday morning, April 30, to Saturday evening, May 7, should crowd the store to demonstrate that this new Temple of Commerce not only looks like a New York store but offers all the advantages of shopping in New York without the expense of going there.

Supremacy Week is prepared for many weeks in advance, during which our buyers search the markets for quantities of desirable and seasonal merchandise which, for this event, were secured at prices very much lower than we usually pay.

This is an occasion that is planned to make friends rather than profits. Buying lower than usual and marking much lower than usual, you benefit by the savings and we benefit by your increased patronage.

No job lots or discarded or shoddy merchandise in this sale. All fresh, new merchandise, priced as low or lower than the usual wholesale cost to us.

This sale demonstrates:

—Supremacy in great assortments of desirable merchandise.

—Supremacy in the most beautiful retail structure.

—Supremacy in the science of modern retail distribution.

All the merchandise offered is of good quality. It is desirable and dependable. It is new, fresh, seasonal merchandise for immediate use.

Quantities in every instance are believed to be sufficiently large to supply the demands for at least two days selling.

There are no seconds (except in Basement), or imperfect merchandise in this sale. Neither is it soiled, mussed, shop-worn or undesirable. It is worthy of your full confidence.

This Supremacy Sale is a store-wide event. Every department including the Bargain Basement, contributes its best efforts to these seven days to make them the most outstanding demonstration of our ability to sell good merchandise at low prices, that has ever been offered in this city.

All the usual courtesies and conveniences, in regard to charge accounts and delivery service, prevail. We do not cut our service when we cut our prices.

The Bargain Basement, of course—as usual, is on a strictly Cash and Carry plan.

Friday and Saturday newspapers will carry full details. Don't miss them. If you do, you will lose money.

CHILD HEALTH SUNDAY.

The Georgia May day committee, cooperating with the Georgia state board of health and the American Child Health association, is planning for child health sermons in churches all over the state Sunday, also for the featuring of child health work in all Sunday school exercises.

Mrs. C. A. Ver Nooy, of Athens, is chairman, and is earnestly and vigorously striving to make this May day one of real constructive helpfulness in this most appealing endeavor.

On this page today we publish the words of the "Hymn of Child Health," which will be sung in churches Sunday, not only in Georgia, but throughout the nation. Every churchgoer who will participate in May day exercises should have these words handy and ready for the singing on Sunday. It is an inspirational hymn and impels one to think deeply and earnestly about the human obligation to provide for the health and happiness and future usefulness of children. Conservation of childhood is a sacred duty.

The state committee has announced the following objectives of the May day program:

Each community to have an active May day committee representing organizations interested in health, education and welfare.

Each baby on reaching six months of age to be given toxin-antitoxin to prevent diphtheria.

Each child to present birth, medical, dental and vaccination certificates on entering school.

Each county, either singly or in combination with other counties, to have a commissioner of health, public health nurse as provided by the Ellis health law and a demonstration agent.

Each citizen to know of reduced rates on railroads, and hospital treatment for indigent children. Arrangements to be made through the state board of health, Atlanta.

Each citizen to know that but 3 cents per capita is appropriated by the legislature for health activities for all citizens of Georgia.

A progressive program of health conservation calls for a more adequate appropriation.

We must appreciate that absence from school, because of preventable illness or physical defect, is a large item of waste in school administration.

It is the most outstanding of economic problems—public health. The Constitution heartily commends the activities of the May day committee and urges general citizen cooperation.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The wide publicity given to the annual meetings of the Associated Press in New York this week has served to give the public a better and more comprehensive understanding of the work, obligations, responsibilities and functions of that great mutual and cooperative news gathering and distributing organization.

It is composed of approximately 12,000 leading daily newspapers in the United States.

They are papers of all political and religious faiths.

The organization, therefore, is not in the slightest degree governed by, nor does it reflect, any bias on any controversial question.

It is not a privately owned, nor a money-making institution. It belongs to the associated group of newspapers, banded for a single purpose, and its increments over and over disbursements are placed back into the practical service for strengthening and enlarging it. The Associated Press is today the greatest news exchange in the world. It maintains a standard. It is always trustworthy, dependable. It has attained the highest ideals in mutuality of interests, service, ethics and fraternity.

ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE.

In many ways the life of the late Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana, involved human elements closely akin to those that were outstanding in the life of the late William J. Bryan.

There were marked evidences of statesmanship in the thoughts and works of both men, and at the same time there were radical characteristics that ran counter to their party faiths and to their own political interests in popular elections.

They both were great orators and great writers, although Senator Beveridge was a closer student of history than Mr. Bryan, and reached greater renown in literary attainments.

They both entered congress at about the same youthful age, the Nebraska democrat in the house, the only office to which he was ever elected, and the Indiana republican in the senate, through election by the legislature.

They were both known as "boy orators" in congress.

Senator Beveridge held two terms by legislative election, and though an early and earnest advocate—as was Mr. Bryan—of the election of senators by a direct vote of the people he was twice defeated when he rested his political fortunes with the people.

The last time he ran for public office he was defeated for the senate by the late Senator Samuel Ralston, democrat, in 1922.

Senator Beveridge was perhaps a greater lawyer than Mr. Bryan, but in many things political they thought alike.

The Indianan was not an orthodox republican. He vigorously advocated free trade with Porto Rico, and he joined the Roosevelt progressive movement in 1912, but came back into the party fold in 1916 and supported Mr. Hughes. He conducted a vigorous campaign for Harding in 1920. It is true that Mr. Bryan was not always an orthodox democrat.

Senator Beveridge was—as was Mr. Bryan—a man of deep religious convictions, an uncompromising prohibitionist, and fundamentalist, although he did not make either of the latter problems so outstanding in his speeches and writings as did Mr. Bryan.

All in all, however, there were many characteristics in common between these two great Americans who have passed off the stage with only their records left.

"PASSING THE BUCK."

Ogden L. Mills, under secretary of the treasury, at a recent address at a testimonial dinner given him in New York said:

"The real tax problem of the country is no longer in Washington but in the state capitals, in the city halls and county seats throughout the country. Turn your eyes homeward, much remains to be done there."

That is "passing the buck." The percentage increase in annual federal expenditures, since the war, has been far heavier than the average percentage increases in states. That is a pad and pencil matter, and can be easily verified by the official statistics. It is not fair, therefore, to attempt to shift the responsibility upon the states or upon municipal governments.

It is true that state and municipal government costs have increased in some instances far too rapidly.

There has been—there is—entirely too much looseness in many states and cities in handling public funds.

There should be business conservatism—and the application of tried and tested business policies in all governments, with business men and not politicians at the heads of such governments, but the national administration has its own responsibility, and it is not just to smoke-screen the meeting of that responsibility by directing the eyes of the nation upon state and local governments.

The boys going to China believe that there will be little work for them to do and instead of coming back with a Victoria cross will be content with a laundry mark.

Mussolini has declared that fliers in the royal air force must wait until they are 30 years of age before they marry, indicating that it is a strain on the men to be up in the air off duty as well as in the service.

A scowfall is no such much concerned over his liberty as his license.

About half of the married men in this country clipped the press dispatch from Miami which told of "the woman who suffered from scolding her husband," and showed it to his wife.

It is passing strange that an uncivilized nation can have a civil war.

It looks as if we have Yanked Nicaragua out of trouble.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

New York, April 27.—Out in Iowa lived the creator of a liver pill, not large in size, but potent in medicinal action. He didn't advertise, the sales of his pill having grown rapidly in an era when products of that sort were in great demand. His name appearing on his packages was only a name to druggists, wholesale and retail, who bought what he manufactured.

His removal to New York did not alter his condition. In fact, it assured the preservation of his privacy. He lived in an expensive apartment on Park avenue, had an estate in Westchester, and died recently without even a notice of his death being published in the papers. He was a fortune that ran into the tens of millions.

He remained in the Iowa town where he started, the piercing publicity of the time that brings into relief the "prominent citizen" of the "quiet area," would have made a national figure of him. He was a fortune that ran into the tens of millions. It took a town the size of the metropolis to get him the obscurity he sought.

Famous Men in Unkempt Graves. Trinity cemetery, at Broadway and Wall street, was founded 224 years ago, and has been the final resting place of many of the great men of the city. It is a desecrated tree or two and that's all the adornment the place has known. The cemetery is a place where the great men of the city have been laid to rest. It is a place where the great men of the city have been laid to rest.

Some weeks ago a flock of land-seap gardeners was turned loose among the graves, and the old place has taken on an added attraction. A mosaic of flagstones has replaced the dirt paths, pounded to almost concrete hardness by the feet of millions of sightseers. Shrubbery relieves the bleakness of the tombs, vaults and rickety slabstones.

In Trinity are interred the remains of John Watts, last royal recorder of the city; Alexander Hamilton, first chief justice of the United States; and John Jay, first chief justice of the New York state supreme court.

Noisy Musicians Often Nasty. Noisy musicians who daily use the rooms of the New York Music library have created a problem, which eventually will make necessary the installation of sound-proof rooms.

Musically speaking, the library has listened with tolerance the past seven years to the artistic disturbances created by conductors and singers who have made use of the library's work on the institution's shelves.

Even those conductors who, suddenly, delivered over a heroic passage in Beethoven, crashed one of the library tables with their fists, have gone unmolested; and many a soprano from the Metropolitan and elsewhere, unexpectedly and without warning, has escaped unscathed.

But the limit has been reached. More self-restrained musicians have complained that the library is too noisy, and that the library is too noisy.

Sound-proof rooms for the use of demonstrative music lovers seems, therefore, the only way out.

What About Other Cities? Cleveland is said to be a bidder for the convention, though there is as yet no positive evidence of the fact. But if St. Louis and Kansas City are blacklisted, as they are, because they are in Senator Jim Reed's state and he is a presumed candidate for the presidential nomination, how comes Cleveland to be a bidder for the convention?

It is in Governor Vic Donahey's state. He is quite as pronounced a candidate as Senator Reed and that fact alone will make him a bidder for the convention.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

Debating in What Town Us Democrats Will Fuse or Fight Next Year.

All of a sudden Senator Carter Glass has sprung the discussion of where the democratic national convention of next year should be held.

He proposes, in favor of Washington city, claiming it to be "neutral ground" on which all camps can meet on equal footing.

Washington, it is claimed, has no vote in the selection of the convention site, and has no political bias.

The suggestion, of course, finds instant favor from the business men and hotelkeepers of the city. They are planning to create strong inducements to locate the convention here at the capital of the nation.

Washington city would be an acceptable situs for the convention.

Mention of Atlanta's aspiration to have the convention is taken as a joke by the Washingtonians, and it challenges the mettle of our people.

It is up to them now to show the country just what sort of jokers they are and to play their "joker" against all the cards on the convention game table.

Not So Neutral as Claimed. Speaking of Washington city as "neutral ground" is more of a joke than speaking of Atlanta as a fit place for the convention.

Possibly Senator Glass forgets (or maybe he doesn't), that Washington is only 40 miles from Baltimore, with half-hour train, trolley and bus connections.

It is up to them now to show the country just what sort of jokers they are and to play their "joker" against all the cards on the convention game table.

Then, There Is Prohibition. No one doubts that the republicans declare for full enforcement of the prohibition laws.

But it is not the business of democrats to take advice and directions from the republicans.

When our convention assembles in 1928 it is fairly certain that the delegates will reflect the sentiments of their constituents and that a platform and nominations will be made which will represent the sentiments of the great majority of the party.

Muddy Hems on Judicial Robes

BY JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

A "pretty brunette" in the front row of a Brooklyn magistrate's court the other day, committed the heinous offense of dabbing a little powder on her tip-tipped nose.

The magistrate who should have been hearing, summoned the "pretty brunette" before him, and as the song writers put it, to her he did say:

"This court is not a beauty parlor. It is a place to do up. I have it is disgraceful. If I ever see another woman powdering her nose in my court I shall fine her $10."

The "pretty brunette" had been looking for a constitutional rights she would have sniled brightly at the gentleman in the Judicial Monkey Fur and admonished him not to make a mistake.

The female nose is being publicly dusted today, in public in every part of this fair land. No one thinks anything of it.

The magistrate was looking for a little cheap publicity. He wanted to get his name in the papers and he did it.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

WHEN THE RIMBO HOLDS HIS BREATH.

Any regular fellow may hold his breath as an expression of his indignation when he doesn't get what he wants when he wants it. A baby can't very well cuss nor throw things nor break up the furniture.

Now and again this breath holding business amounts to something more serious. It becomes a real spasm of the larynx—that's the cartilaginous box where the vocal cords are housed—the larynx makes the prominence commonly called the Adam's apple.

Spasm of the larynx, or laryngospasm, occurs most commonly in infants subject to tetany. Tetany is a nutritional disorder associated with some deficiency in the metabolism or utilization of calcium (lime) in the body and characterized by a tendency toward spasmodic contraction of the hands and feet, as well as some of the breathing muscles.

Tetany usually is not a very serious condition, but it may become so if it is not treated. It is a condition that is usually treated by the administration of calcium.

Satisfactory Life Is Just A Matter of Cultivating Habits

By Robert Quillen

As everybody knows, the wear and tear of indecision saps the vitality, makes the nerves raw and takes the pleasure out of living.

In its most acute form, indecision is called worry; and worry, as everybody knows, affects people of acute sensibilities much as a long illness does.

To obviate the ill effects of indecision, a kindly Nature has made us creatures of habit.

We do a thing today, automatically, for no better reason than that we did it yesterday and on many yesterdays.

Thus we dress ourselves in the morning, carefully and adroitly, while our minds are attending to matters of more importance.

Except for the blessing of habit, each item of dress and each movement required in making the toilet would necessitate the making of a decision, and the breakfast bell would find us already weary of the day's duties.

You have observed, of course, that men of unusual vitality make decisions quickly; and perhaps you have said: "No wonder he can decide quickly! See how vigorous he is—how charged with energy!"

Perhaps you are right, but in a sense you certainly are wrong.

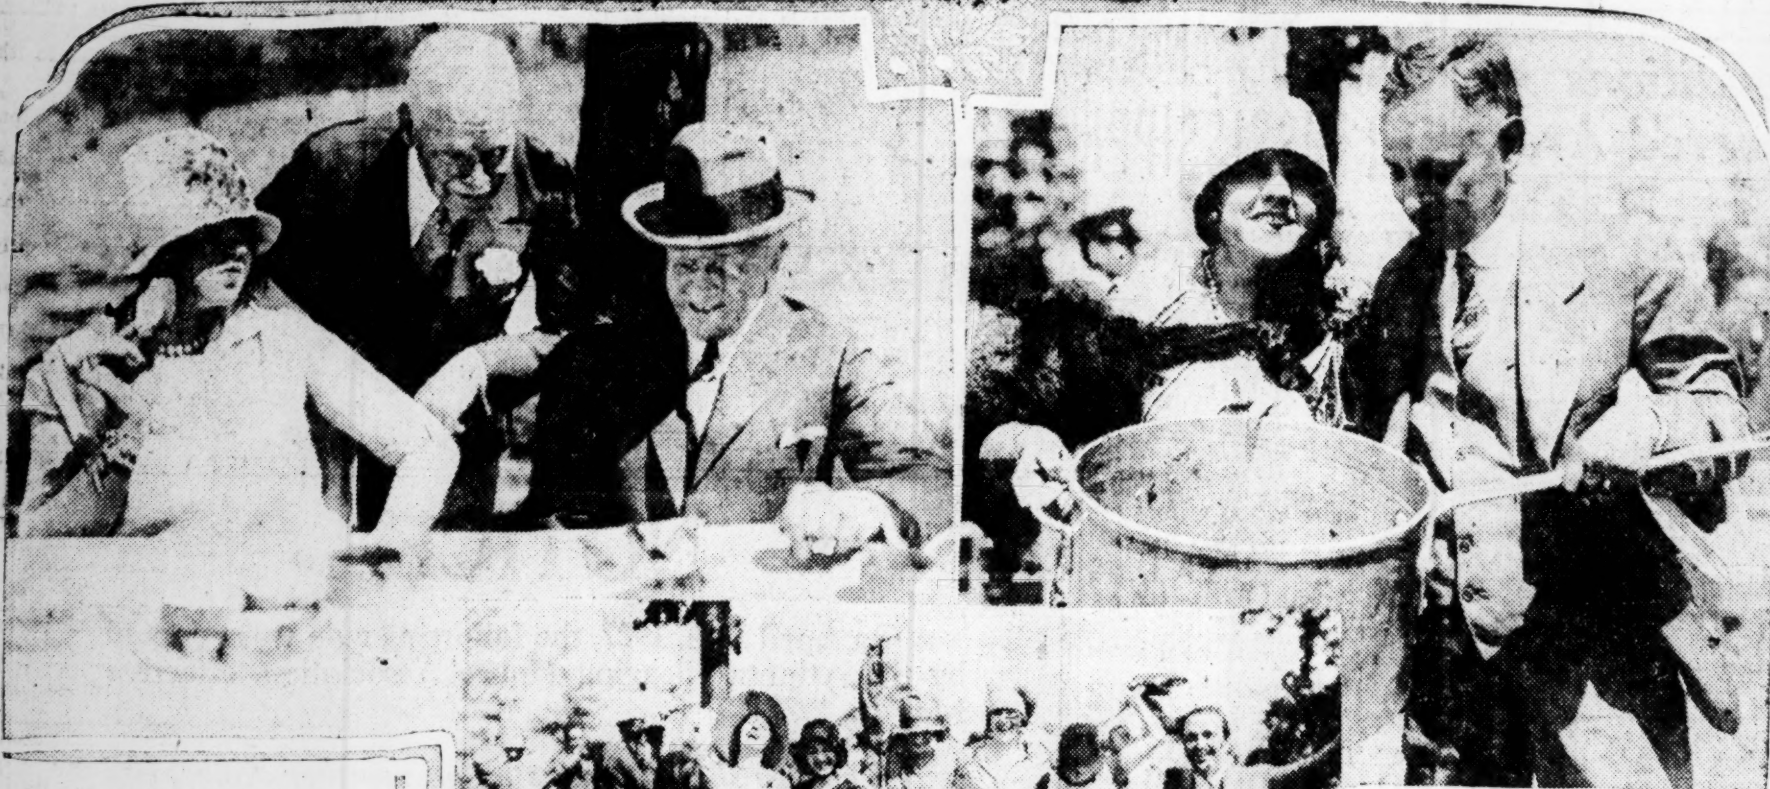

To some extent, at least, the man is charged with energy because he doesn't waste any of it in the debilitating business of indecision.

The habit of deciding quickly is just as easily acquired as any other good habit, and it not only saves time but a great deal of nervous energy.

We are born

Miss A. Butts Tells How Cuticura Healed Eczema

"Eczema began with a breaking out of small pimples on my face, and afterwards spread almost over my entire body. My face itched and burned so badly that I scratched it, causing eruptions that disfigured my face, and I was ashamed to be seen. My clothing aggravated the eruptions on my body, and I lost many nights of rest and sleep because of the irritation.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me. I continued the treatment and after using three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one and a half boxes of Cuticura Soap I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Atrine Butts, Box 157, Milledgeville, Ga., June 8, 1926.

WOMAN IS BLAMED BY SNYDER'S SLAYER

death stroke in the killing of her husband, chubbing him and tying the wire around his neck after Gray had lost his nerve.

Mrs. Snyder urged Gray to do the murder and made a half-dozen previous attempts on the life of her husband.

Mrs. Snyder refused to let Gray "back out" on the night of the crime, even when he tried to break away.

Ruth Snyder told him that she had insured her husband for $50,000 (doubled in case of violent death).

In Mrs. Snyder's confession: "Judd Gray suggested that they kill her husband."

Gray struck all the death blows, finished the "job" and told her "that done" as she stood in the hallway and watched.

Gray plotted the crime with her in a series of dead letters and set the date for the murder.

Her confession made no reference to the insurance.

It was a cringing confession that Newcomb read at what he had done, horrified at what he had done.

There were attempts at extenuation.

"With some veiled threats and intensive love-making she reached the point where she got me in such a whirl that I didn't know where I was at," recited the confession. "She forced her friendship upon and played me hard. She is a woman of great charm. I do not need to tell you that. I could not resist her."

Judd's confession stated that before enlisting him in the plot Mrs. Snyder had tried to kill her husband in six ways. Twice by giving him sleeping powders and disconnecting the gas valve; twice by administering bicarbonate of mercury tablets to him under the pretense that they relieved his coughing, and twice in manners not specified.

The Gray confession started with a meeting with Mrs. Snyder, a "pick-up" meeting in a New York cafe. He told of his pathetic, feeble efforts to remain faithful to his wife and of his collapse.

"Woman Tempted Me."

"The woman tempted me," he wrote, "and told me of her marital unhappiness."

When Mrs. Snyder spoke of "getting rid" of her husband Gray said he told her:

"I think you are terrible."

Near the beginning Gray took up his story of their love relations.

The confession read in part: "I think that the intimate relations started in August, if I am not mistaken. Prior to that I am pretty positive we didn't. She was just a woman that I respected, that is all. I think in September we started to correspond. I was in the habit of getting two or three letters a day—one practically every day when I was away from home.

"I think it was in November or December that she spoke about increasing the insurance on her husband's life. I think that was in December, 1926. She told me that it was to be $50,000, as I recall the figures.

"Did Me Pretty Hard."

"I saw quite a little of her from then on when I wasn't traveling. She would come in town shopping and call on me as far as I was concerned, I will say, to use the slang, she did me pretty hard for a while. I was out to her house for luncheon and met her mother. I do not think her mother knew of the relations which existed. At the time I met her I told her I was married and she could never be anything between us as far as we were concerned, as I was happy at home and had a very fine wife.

"As this thing kept growing she made several attempts upon his life. She told me and I told her I thought she was terrible. I was reaching the point where I was beginning to get afraid. She started to hound me upon this plan to assist her."

Rambling on in his confession, Gray sketched the events of a week of sordid scheming and then told of his visit to the Snyder home on the night of March 20, "to deliver the goods."

So he went into the house, he wrote, and was coming down stairs to leave when they drove up to the front. He returned from the party. He "ducked" upstairs, he said, and hid in the room of Mrs. Snyder's mother. The confession whined on.

Urges Killing.

"As I was saying, she came in that night and said, 'you are going to do it, aren't you?' I said I think I can. I sat there for probably an hour. Then she got in a 2 o'clock train and I told her to go back into bed, figuring that I could steal away. But she didn't go. She sat right there at the bedside and I started after her. She went first. I followed her to the bedroom and it was I who hit him the first blow with this window weight. I don't know what what did happen for a short time.

"He got me by the necktie and I think I am positive that she started to behave him with this sash weight after that. She had the bottle of chloroform and handkerchief which she poured on the bed. I don't know whether she gagged him or not. She passed me a necktie and I tried to tie his hands and I couldn't. She tied his hands with a towel and gave me a necktie to tie his feet and she covered up his head. He was still alive the last that I heard. She said, 'Is he dead?' I said, 'No.' She said, 'This thing has absolutely got to go through.' I said, 'Well, I am through.' I had lost the picture wire. There were two pieces and I am pretty sure it must have been around his neck that it must have been tied by her."

Took Several Drinks.

Then Gray says Mrs. Snyder called him down in the cellar and showed him how she had disposed of the murder tool and bloody evidence. The pair returned upstairs and disarranged everything in the house to make it appear as though a burglar had ransacked it. Afterwards they had "three or four drinks" and she gave him a bottle to comfort him on his way back to Snyder.

Before he left the Snyder home, he said he bound Mrs. Snyder to make the robbery story seem plausible, and left her lying in bed.

In closing his confession he explained the "veiled threats" made by Mrs. Snyder.

"The veiled threats that I referred to in my statement," he wrote, "were the threats that Mrs. Snyder made to expose to my wife the intimate relations between her and myself, unless I helped her with this plan."

Detective.

Reading of the confession completed, Detective Frank W. Heydler, of the Jamaica precinct, took the stand and underwent the most searching cross-examination of any witness yet questioned.

Heydler was brought in to enable the state to offer as evidence a half dozen or more articles found in the murder room. During all this time these articles, several of them blood stained, were waved from the witness stand and afterward placed on a table directly in front of Gray. They were half hidden by chairs of the lawyers from where Mrs. Snyder sat, but she lowered her eyes when they were held up on the witness stand.

Among these articles was the blood-stained pillow against which Snyder's head rested after his assailants beat him with the sash weight. A bloody pillow case lay across it. The wire used to bind Snyder's neck was there, as was a tie, a blue handkerchief and the cotton waste used to gag him. A revolver found in the murder chamber also was offered in evidence.

A semi-comic atmosphere was introduced late in the afternoon when a rural witness and youthful patrolman climbed into the witness chair to enjoy their brief moments in the limelight.

Nat Willis, Queens Villager, and apparently quite a local wit, told of meeting Gray on the morning of the murder as both waited for a "pesky bus" that was late. There was a cop in a nearby booth industriously sweeping up his cubby hole. Willis "kidded" him about "cleaning house" and Judd took it all in a fairly jovial manner.

The cop decided to display his prowess with his pistol, Willis testified and Gray watched him shooting at tin cans.

"What, if anything, did Gray say?"

A. "He said, 'I would hate like hell to have that man shooting at me.'"

Assistant District Attorney Conroy was on the stand when the trial opened in the morning. He was questioned by the state and counsel for both defendants regarding Gray's "break" coming down from Syracuse.

Gray's attorney, Millard, asked Conroy:

"Do you mean to tell me Gray laughed and joked on the train when he knew he was facing a murder charge?"

"Yes," said Conroy, "he thought it very funny that he should be in the hands of the law. He also told a couple of pretty fair jokes."

Q. "When did he 'break'?"

A. "Some place below Peekskill."

Q. "Did he joke any after that?"

A. "No."

Police Lieutenant Martin Z. Brown was questioned briefly concerning the

Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.

The pointer for today is:
An initial bid of a strong four-card suit is reasonably safe; but bidding any four-carder subsequently is fraught with danger.

Yesterday's hand was held by West who had to decide what to do after a declaration by South.

A-K-10-7
A-Q-10-4-3
9-7-2

My answer slip reads:
No. 9. South pass; West should bid one Spade.

No. 10. South one No Trump; West should pass.

No. 11. South one Diamond; West should bid one Heart.

No. 12. South one Club; West should double.

My reasons in support of these declarations are:

No. 9. With a strong Major semi-two-suit (i. e., a hand containing one strong four-card Major and one strong five-card Major), bid the high er-valued first even when it is a four-card suit. A five-card suit can be bid subsequently with much more freedom than a four-card suit; therefore, with this holding bid one Spade, not one Heart.

No. 10. A pass is the soundest declaration. True, there is ample strength for two Hearts, but game at Hearts is not probable and there is a good chance of setting the adverse No Trump. Furthermore, the Heart bid may guide the adversaries into a game-going or score-producing Minor.

No. 11. A reasonable close choice between one Spade and one Heart, but the bid now made is apt to stand; Dealer's bid may keep East from declaring. If North obtain the contract, the Heart is the lead that West desires.

No. 12. Over a Club bid, the hand has an attractive two-suit double. If East have four of either Major, he will answer with that suit, which is what West desires. If East answer with a Diamond, West can bid a Heart, showing that Diamonds will not do and telling East to choose between the Majors. In No. 11, if West double, East is almost sure to answer with two Clubs, and then West would have to bid two Hearts. In No. 12 West can make the same showing with one Heart. With West's hand a Major answer from East is more probable with Clubs doubled than with Diamonds doubled.

Today's west hand follows:

Accidents Do Not Respect Persons; Get Insurance

"Woman Critically Injured When Struck by Auto."

Every day this column carries a warning to you personally to insure yourself against the ever-mounting traffic accident wave.

Don't make the mistake of thinking that the warning applies only to men. The unprecedented reign of disasters does not respect persons; it claims just as many women victims as men.

Every day you read in the newspapers of the death and injury of women in traffic and other accidents. Why not take the lesson to heart? Insure yourself!

The Constitution offers you the famous $7,500 travel accident policy issued by the North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago, an old, reliable concern that has paid more than $50,000 in cash on claims of Constitution policyholders.

Any Constitution reader between 15 and 70 years of age may secure this policy for only $1.25 per year, a fraction of a penny a day.

In case of death resulting from certain specified accidents, payments are provided for sums ranging downward from $7,500, with heavy payments for permanent injuries and $10 weekly indemnity for disability resulting from the accidents set forth.

A train wreck, a crash of cars, the speeding wheels of recklessly-driven automobiles, burning buildings—and you may be left dead or maimed to-day.

Watch for advertisements appearing regularly in this paper which describe the offer in detail.

This $7,500 travel accident policy is issued only to subscribers of The Daily and Sunday Constitution and immediate dependent members of a subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 70 at $1.25 per policy per year.

One who is now taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution or will subscribe for same through carrier in Atlanta or suburbs, through an out-of-town carrier, or dealer, paying for the paper weekly, monthly or otherwise, is a subscriber, and is eligible. Those taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution, by mail, either through a post office or rural route delivery, and all others subscribing through the twin-world building contest for one year are eligible by paying $1.25 per year per policy above the subscription price.

In sending application for insurance the applicant must state name in full, give age and occupation. If beneficiary is desired, full Christian name must be given and the relation of the same to the insured.

SIR GALAHAD ORDER IN MEETING TONIGHT

Commemorating the second anniversary of the founding of the Incarnate Word of the Order of Sir Galahad in Atlanta, a special meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Church of Incarnation parish house, at Lee and York streets, according to announcement by George O. Jones, director.

Divided into various degrees, the court, or local branch of the Order of Galahad, an international organization affiliated with the Episcopal church, includes members of all ages, from 9 years up—lads, pages, esquires, knights and counselors marking the different stages of advancement.

MISSOURI PACIFIC ROAD RESUMES OLDSCHEDULE

Missouri Pacific passenger representatives, Atlanta office, have received information to the effect that the Missouri Pacific railroad is now operating trains from Memphis to Texas via Little Rock and Texarkana, and Memphis to Hot Springs, over their own rails, with little delay on account of the flood conditions. The embargo on White river division is also cancelled.

ATLANTAN HONORED BY TRAFFIC LEADERS

T. B. Curtis, of 1147 Orme circle, N. E., president of the Traffic Club of Atlanta, and general agent in Atlanta of the Charleston and Western Carolina railroad, has been named first vice president of the Associated Traffic Clubs of America, in session in Memphis, Tenn., according to news received here Wednesday night.

Mr. Curtis is prominent in business and civic circles. He has served as a member of committees in the Associated Traffic Clubs of America and has been a leading figure in the organization's advancement.

Mr. Curtis, with his wife, who accompanied him on his trip to Memphis, are expected to return to the city the latter part of this week.

Veteran Dies After Speech To Comrades

Griffin, Ga., April 27.—(Special.) Ten minutes after he had told a Memorial day audience Tuesday at Warm Springs, "I am not so much interested in things pertaining to war as I am in the kingdom of God, and I am making my preparations to go there. I hope I will meet my comrades-in-arms on that bright shore."

Morris Toles Crouch, 82-year-old Meriwether county Confederate veteran, suffered a stroke—paralysis that resulted in his death Wednesday morning.

Mr. Crouch had been called on by the chairman of the Memorial day exercises at Warm Springs to make a short talk and his remarks electrified his audience. There was scarcely a dry eye in his audience when he took his seat.

After Mr. Crouch had suffered the stroke he was carried to his home in Gay and died there early Wednesday morning. He was one of the most prominent planters in this section of the state. He had been an active member of the Confederate church and was a deacon. He was also prominent in Masonic circles.

The funeral services will be held at the Gay Baptist church at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning. Interment will be at Gay.

Mr. Crouch is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. E. Thrash and Mrs. W. A. Selman, of Atlanta; Mrs. H. R. Estes, of Gay, and three sons, J. H. and R. O. Crouch, of Griffin, and Roy Crouch, of Gay.

YOUTHS MAY DIE FOLLOWING FALLS, HOSPITALS REPORT

Accidental falls placed the lives of two youths in jeopardy Wednesday. Frank Brantley, 18, of Union City, Ga., tumbled from the roof of a Fairview road residence while repairing a rain trough at the house.

Baptist hospital he was found to have received internal injuries, concussion of the brain and possible fracture of the spine.

While fishing on a dam at Silver Lake, Milton Lacey, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lacey, 881 Courtland street, fell and struck his head on a piling. Grady hospital physicians believe he received concussion of the brain.

Crescent Limited Runs Upon Schedule 363 Out of 365 Days

Reaching Atlanta from New York on time 363 days out of 365 during the second year of its operation, the "Crescent Limited," the Southern railway's all-Pullman day-express train running between New York, Washington, Atlanta and New Orleans, established a new record for on-time performance of 99.4 per cent. Assistant General Passenger Agent J. C. Beam announced Wednesday.

Northbound, the "Crescent Limited" reached Washington on time 346 times, or 95 per cent. These figures are even better than those for the first year, which were 97.2 per cent northbound and 95.3 per cent southbound. The "Crescent Limited" was inaugurated on April 20, 1925.

The actual performance of the Southern was even better than is indicated by these figures. Mr. Beam added, since time was made on the schedule in both directions a number of times.

"That this is a real accomplishment in regularity of performance," Mr. Beam said, "will be appreciated by every one who remembers that this train is operated daily in both directions over a distance of 1,538 miles, 628 over the Southern line in Atlanta and Washington, 227 over the Pennsylvania between Washington and New York, and 493 over the West Point route and Louisville and Nashville between Atlanta and New Orleans."

Tiny Infant Dies.

At the age of two weeks, the smallest baby ever born at Grady hospital, Tuesday night, the hospital records revealed. The infant weighed 24 ounces at birth and was the child of Mrs. M. M. Elliott, of 478 Lindsay street.

Man Who Spoke Here in 80's Opens Fundamentalist Week

Dr. L. W. Munnall, of Philadelphia, Pa., who 40 years ago conducted a revival service at the First Baptist church when Henry Grady and many other famed Atlantans were on the management committee, will be principal speaker Sunday afternoon before the opening session of the Christian Fundamentalist association convention here.

The meetings, which will continue through May 8 with three services daily, will assemble in Atlanta several thousand ministers and laymen from all parts of the country.

Another speaker who will address the meeting Sunday afternoon is W. B. Riley, of Minneapolis, Minn., president of the association, and one of the leading figures in a nationwide fight waged against the forces of "modernism."

Because of the central location and seating capacity, the Baptist Tabernacle church, the meeting place has been transferred from the North Avenue Presbyterian church to the former edifice, where plans are under way to care for the crowds.

A great response has been received from members of the association to the 7,000 invitations sent out for the first southern meeting here. This reflects a growing interest in the cause of fundamentalism championed by the association, officials declare.

The association was organized by Clarence Darrow, noted free thinker and modernist, to debate biblical questions here. As yet no response has been made by the Chicagoan.

The association was organized among churches of all denominations for the purpose of combating "modernistic" ideas in the Christian faith, in particular with regard to the virgin birth of Jesus Christ.

Dr. McMarion Hull is in charge of local arrangements for the meeting. Meetings will be held daily through the week with services at 9:30 o'clock in the morning; 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:30 o'clock each night.

BANK OFFICIALS ASK NEW TRIAL

Pleas of four ex-officials of the Bankers' Trust company for a new trial on mail fraud charges, on which they were convicted and sentenced recently in United States district court, are now before Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley, following the close of the trial.

They are: George W. Walker, president of the company, who pleaded that Judge Sibley will announce his decision Saturday.

Others are: John D. Russell, Jr., vice president, who pleaded that he should reach a decision by Saturday, he will defer signing the official court order until his return from a vacation trip to Europe, where he will give the defense time to prepare its case for further court action, either in a new trial or in an appeal to higher courts.

The four defendants are J. A. Sasser, John D. Russell, L. R. Adams and P. J. Baker. All excepting Russell were sentenced to five years in prison and $10,000 fine. Russell was sentenced to pay fines of $10,000 each. The case grew out of the failure of the Bankers' Trust company.

OFFICIAL APPROVES 'COW, HOG AND HEN'

Official approval of the cow, hog and hen movement being conducted by the Georgia association, the national organization of organized labor, and assurance of labor's active support in the undertaking was voiced Wednesday by Louis P. Marquardt, secretary and treasurer of the Georgia Federation of Labor and former president of the body.

Marquardt's action in behalf of the labor organization has also been the movement, which is to instigate the raising of food products within the state to supply the existing $350,000,000 market for Georgia products.

At the office of the Georgia association as a considerable enhancement of the movement. The full support of public utility interests has been thrown behind the undertaking. F. H. Abbott, secretary of the association, announced.

It was pointed out at the association headquarters that the five cities of Atlanta, Savannah, Macon, Columbus and Augusta provided a market large enough to absorb the production of the Georgia products. The Georgia products, which will result from the cow, hog and hen movement, Georgia is spending $82,000,000 on the movement, which is to instigate the raising of food products within the state to supply the existing $350,000,000 market for Georgia products.

The resolution follows: "Whereas the Georgia association, with limited funds and with a genuine interest in the state, has worked for eight years to reclaim its washed lands, re-establish its devastated forests, and change its agricultural system from one of cotton production to diversity and live stock raising; and

"Whereas as a result of Cow-Hog-Hen week and of the cumulative force of the Georgia association's efforts given two years, we now see its program succeeding throughout the state and being rapidly adopted;

"Therefore be it resolved by the Georgia State Federation of Labor that it congratulate the Georgia association and its members for their successful work; and be it further resolved that we call upon every institution in Georgia, especially the business institutions, to aid in every possible way the Georgia association's efforts to reclaim its washed lands, re-establish its devastated forests, and change its agricultural system from one of cotton production to diversity and live stock raising; and

Life Insurance Trust Service Seen As Big Service To Mankind

Protects Beneficiaries of Life Policies From Unscrupulous Persons as Well as Mistakes of Inexperience.

In announcing the inauguration of a life insurance trust department, H. Lane Young, speaking for the Citizens & Southern chain of banks, stressed the great economic benefit that will accrue to beneficiaries who, without this assistance are often left making poor investments, thus squandering the insurance estates left by thoughtful providers.

Under the proposed plan, as outlined by the speakers, the Citizens & Southern system will inaugurate a trust service which will enable beneficiaries to make better use of their inheritance in a manner similar to that which the trust companies administer estates. This service will give fiduciary protection over a vast volume of life insurance now outstanding which has been written in record breaking amounts.

Mr. Young said the move of the Citizens & Southern system was one which would have far-reaching economic consequences of benefit to the people of the entire state.

"I firmly believe that never in the economic history of the state has a greater opportunity existed for the great forces to cooperate to such material advantage to the general public as they serve," Mr. Young said. "Life insurance capitalizes 'life value' and is fast becoming recognized as the greatest creative force in the building of a definite estate. The trust service of the insurance company in the relationship, safety and facility for conserving that which life insurance has created."

An effort to conserve the proceeds of life insurance policies for the beneficiaries, the life insurance companies have provided optional settlements in their policies, the speaker said. In this manner, however, it is impossible to provide for various contingencies to be encountered by dependents of the insured and the fact that more than 90 per cent of the life insurance now in force is payable in a lump sum to the beneficiaries is evidence that this does not meet the situation.

The speakers said that for more than a century the work of trust departments of banking institutions has been to seek proper investments for estates. It was not, however, until recently that the trust companies extended their service to cooperate with the various contingencies that will be encountered. The insured will not be there himself to exercise his own judgment; therefore, he has done the best thing in appointing a trustee to stand in his stead. The trust company is always on the job; it never goes on a vacation; it never sleeps. By appointing it to administer the policy proceeds, he provides for his family, not only money, but expert money management.

STATE'S EXPENSE EXCEEDS INCOME

Georgia's expense account the last quarter exceeded its income by $424,633.63, it was shown in the report of State Treasurer W. J. Sizer, which was filed with the Georgia General Assembly.

Receipts for the quarter ending April 1 were $8,421,284.98 and disbursements, $8,845,918.61. The state, however, due to surplus on hand, began the second quarter with a balance in the treasury of $2,550,076, the report stated.

Heavy disbursements during the first three months of 1927 included a $4,786,152.10 payment to pay of all school warrants discounted for last year, $1,060,000 in motor vehicle tax fees and $447,426 in gasoline tax to the state highway department; $437,651.84 in gasoline tax to counties; $468,984 for pension; $278,639.95 to the state auditor; $106,141.16 in insurance premiums on public buildings; and $51,500 to agricultural schools.

Receipts for the quarter included $2,297,718.63 from general tax; $1,151,544.59 from motor vehicle fees; $1,554,856.20 from gasoline tax; $1,300,000 from temporary loan proceeds; $216,654.45 from inspection oil fees; $118,452.15 from poll tax; and $208,000 from cigar and cigarette stamp tax.

The total aggregate debt of the state at the close of the quarter was given as $4,986,202, of which $1,896,000 represented the total bonded debt of Georgia.

Blackmer Song Never Published, Declares Haase

Louis Haase, manager of the Erlanger theater, issued a statement Wednesday to the effect that no copies of the love song sung by Sidney Blackmer in the leading role of "The Mountain Man," being played there this week, were available. Many people have inquired about the song, which has proved quite popular with theatergoers here. The ballad has this week's performance at the Erlanger being produced," Mr. Haase said.

Sophy Tancred's Husbands

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER.

SYNOPSIS.
Sophy and Piers Tancred have lately taken the Villa Mona at Bordighera on the Italian Riviera. Sophy learns that her former husband, Alan Brooke, the sculptor, is living nearby and that they are to meet at dinner that night. She is afraid of her husband's jealousy and, since he thought she was a widow when he married her, she goes to Brooke's studio to warn him against telling Piers that they had been married. Alan tells Sophy that his housekeeper, Cristina, is really his wife and they have a little son. Willie Moppet, a male gossip of Bordighera, interrupts them and Sophy flies back to the Villa Mona in fear.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

Willie Makes a Promise.

Willie Moppet ran over this request in his mind very rapidly and came to an immediate conclusion. There was no harm in doing Cecilia Bryant so modest a favor. He had every faith in her discretion and good taste where his mother was concerned, and besides she knew nothing which was in any way vital.

Willie had not attempted to keep his mother a dead secret in this neighborhood. He knew better than that. Sooner or later people would get to know that he had a mother sequestered for the sake of her health in the Valleccosa valley, but no one would call without first consulting him, and her invalidism was her defense against intrusion. He was not ashamed of her. Give him credit for that. It was rather Mrs. Moppet—she had always called herself "Mrs." of course—who insisted upon keeping aloof from his daily life. Of her own accord she would not have been here at all, but Willie was genuinely fond of her; for one reason because she was the only person on earth with whom he could be frank.

The girl, Cecilia Bryant, was altogether a different matter. She was made of strange stuff, thought Willie, and she would get on in life whether he helped her or not. If he condescended to help her it would count to his credit with her later on, but he knew that she did not really need him. So it was easy enough to promise her a concert at the Doria.

He said that nothing would give him greater pleasure, and it should be arranged at once; perhaps it could be arranged on the same evening as the gala masked ball which was to be held at the casino a fortnight hence. And Cissy would like to go to the ball afterwards, wouldn't she? They could easily fix it up with the woman who helped with the housework to look after his mother that evening.

For a moment or two Miss Cecilia Bryant lost a few shreds of her saucy independence. There was a look in her eyes which spoke of abject adoration more eloquently than words. She could have kissed Willie Moppet's hands.

"You're very kind," she stammered. "Somehow I didn't think you'd consent."

"But why not? You've got a lovely voice, Cissy. One of these days—" "Yes, yes, I know," she cried eagerly. "I mean to get on. I shall be famous some day. I mean to get to the very top. But when I do I shan't forget you and how very kind you've been."

Any one with less intelligence than Willie Moppet might have smiled at this confident assurance. Cissy was only his mother's wage slave now, and apart from one teacher in London who had done what he could to ruin her voice she had very little training.

The great French maestro who wintered at San Remo and to whom Willie had taken her had improved her out of all recognition in a few months. They were hoping it could be arranged for her to follow him to Paris in the spring. Cissy herself was quite determined to do it by hook or crook.

"You'll need a new frock," Willie said, "but you'd better leave that to me." He ran his eye over her in the critical manner of a born dressmaker. "You've got the voice and the 'presence,' but God help you, Cissy, you've no taste in clothes. Afterwards I'll take you to the hat masque. Leave your costume for that to me, too."

While this was going on in the kitchen of the little cottage the invalid in the front room suffered agonies of mind to which she finally gave voice. She could not hear what was being said; only the murmur of their voices drifted to her, but she feared the worst.

"Cissy!" she called in desperation.

'TURANDOT,' PICTURESQUE OPERA, DRAWS COLORFUL AUDIENCE

ATHLETIC CLUB GIVES SUPPER-DANCE IN BEAUTIFUL NEW HOME

Big Ovation For Johnson On First Bow

As the scintillating lights in the auditorium, Atlanta's temple of lyric muse, were lowered at the close of the melodic prelude to "Turandot," Puccini's last romantic composition based on a Chinese fairy tale, the crimson and gold velvet curtains draping the proscenium arch parted on the first scene of the gorgeously staged opera with its elaborate oriental setting, massive and spectacular in conception, a thrilling scene was revealed to several thousand music lovers.

The opera, magnificently sung and acted by outstanding stars of the Metropolitan Opera company, served as an excellent medium to introduce for the first time to an Atlanta audience, the divine tenor of Edward Johnson, star of the first magnitude, who masqueraded as the fervent and unknown Prince Calaf, receiving an overwhelming ovation as the ardent and youthful lover, and achieving a distinct triumph by his artistry in dramatics and the golden beauty of his voice, giving the role that convincing impersonation which made all the more realistic the sacrifice of the slave girl Liu.

Sharing stellar honors with the lyric tenor, and rising in harmonious tones were the clear, exquisite notes from the throat of that versatile artist, Florence Easton, singing the titular role with all the rich resources of her vocal art, cast as the cruel Princess Turandot, the splendor of her costuming bringing delight to the feminine portion of the audience who waxed most enthusiastic over the marvelous manner in which Easton handled the eight-foot train, fashioned from silken material, colorful and rich in Chinese embroidery.

Unfolds in Entrancing Measure. Puccini's "Turandot," with its Chinese influence, effective moonlit scene, and dramatic value of the story, unfolded in entrancing measure Wednesday evening, its romantic climax being reached when Princess Turandot, solves the name of Prince Calaf, declaring it to be "Love." Exquisite arias carried with true precision and charm by the world-renowned orchestra, including "Si more Acolla," "Non Piangere," "In Questa Reggia," "Figlio del Cielo," "Nessun Dorma" and "Tu Che Di Sei Cinto," filled the auditorium with melodious symphony, the opera being sung in Italian by principals and a well-trained chorus, which added picturesque background. Ping, Pang and Pong served admirably for roles presenting such general favorites as De Luca, Angelo Bada, and Alfio Tedesco, while Nanette Guilford was cast as Liu, the slave girl madly in love with Prince Calaf, for whom she surrendered her life. Louise Lersch and Dorothea Flexer sang the maids' roles in a most creditable manner, the rich contralto of Dorothea Flexer, a new star in the vocal constellation, creating a sensation, and sustaining all that the critics described as sympathetic fresh and velvety. Under the masterly direction and baton of Tuillo Serafin the score was given superb color and vitality by the orchestra, the music of the opera appearing most appropriate, exciting and illuminating. The rich colors in "Turandot's" pageantry on one side of the footlights seemed but a part of the lavishness and beauty in the costuming of the women in the audience wearing metal cloths and brocade, chiffons and georgette crepes flashing with rhinestones that would have done credit to the imperial court of China.

Brilliant Coloring Seen. Colored like an old-fashioned garden were the chiffon frocks of tushia, hyacinth blue, rose and lavender simply trimmed in sequins. Many stunning models of black were daringly worn by distinctive women, while debutantes favored girlish frocks of lace with bouffant skirts. Giving subtlety to the simple cut of the gown favored by "Madame" were the accessories and wraps chosen for the occasion. Shawls were the outstanding garment of the evening, displayed in a thousand different fashions, all gold or silver; white, heavily embroidered or showing brilliant colors in Spanish or Italian design. There were many sheer wraps, ostrich trimmed. Others were fashioned of georgette covered with crystals. A stunning wrap was designed in white with a collar of pastel shaded tints, which reached to the skirt hem.

Distinction of Visitors. In each season of opera it is conceded that certain personages or groups of people make the social distinction of that particular season, just as certain stars give special luster to the operatic side. Thus it may be assumed that in boxes and on the promenade Wednesday evening, and at the supper-dances afterward, there were individuals and groups setting the social pace, many of whom have been loyal and enthusiastic opera lovers for 17 consecutive years.

Fairy-Like Frocks Worn. As fairy-like as the story of the opera "Turandot," was the glittering garden of jeweled gowns seen in the vast arena of the auditorium and around the dress circle. Gowns a dazzling array that stunned the eye in their endless procession were displayed in the aisles and through the lobby during the intermission. For the most part the frock of the fashion is simply styled in rich materials with heavy embroidery or decorations. Her wrap was a vivid Spanish shawl of crimson crepe.

Visitors Striking Figures. Mrs. Thomas Pierce, who is an outstanding figure in her own musical city of Saint Louis, was a charming acquisition to the Atlanta music season, appearing in apricot satin, veiled in lace of the same shade. Another stunning visitor from Saint Louis was Mrs. L. Warrenton Baldwin, who wore white satin studded in rhinestones.

White satin and gold composed the frock of Mrs. Homer Owens, of New York. Mrs. James T. Granbery, of Nashville, was gowned in pink satin with draperies of flowered chiffon. Mrs. Argyle Parsons, of New York, wore a cleverly designed frock of pink satin with spangles. Two of the most attractive figures glimpsed in the crowds were Mrs. Andrew Cooper, of Rome, Ga., and her hostess, Mrs. Frank Inman. Mrs. Cooper wore a hands "robe de style" of flesh colored chiffon, rhinestone embroidered. Another stunning Georgia personage was Mrs. J. T. Peacock, of Cochran, the guest of Mrs. William Akers, who wore a lovely gown of green georgette, beaded in crystals. Her flowers were a spray of orchids. Mrs. George L. Cook, of Tampa, Fla., who is also the guest of Mrs. Akers, was lovely in a frock of orange chiffon, beaded in pearls and crystals. Her flowers were orchids.

Mrs. Gould Is Picture. Mrs. James Gould, of New York, the former Miss Marion Goldsmith, of Atlanta, was a lovely picture done in brilliant colors in a costume of scarlet chiffon embroidered in rhinestones, finished with a rhinestone ornament on the left shoulder. Her wrap was red velvet collared in kolinsky. Another costume of undecorated originality was that of Mrs. Lamar Rucker, of Athens, which was fashioned in red crepe de chine, richly embroidered in gold metal threads. Her wrap was of gold metal cloth edged in green fringe. Senora Jose Pennino, of Havana, lanta opera circles, who has been a constant attendant for several seasons, wore a gorgeous gown of red velvet. Another outstanding figure was Mrs. W. G. Cann, of Savannah, in black lace, veiling black chiffon. A costume of brilliance was that of Mrs. Bona Allen, of Buford, composed of peach colored crepe embroidered in rhinestones and pearls.

Tribute To Directors And Singers

The Atlanta Athletic club, upholding its tradition of unsurpassed hospitality, opened wide its doors Wednesday evening, following the spectacular presentation of Puccini's "Turandot," assembling society for the first of the two brilliant supper-dances which will feature the social calendar of the week.

Magnificent in conception and perfect in detail, the affair transcended even the former brilliant efforts of this gracious club. Planned in compliment to the officials of the Atlanta Music Festival association and the artists and members of the Metropolitan Opera company, the occasion offered an opportunity to club members to mingle socially and to express their gratitude to those stars of the world's musical firmament who have made possible the week's feast of melody.

Placed for supper in the spacious dining room and joining salons of the club, the tables seating congenial groups of friends, presented a scene of beauty with their colorful floral decorations. French baskets filled with Dresden shaded flowers formed the attractive centerpieces. Imported favors, consisting of various musical instruments and other appropriate novelties, marking the guests' places, were lovely details of decoration.

Directors' Table. Among those having supper together were the directors of the club and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heintz, Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Jones, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Dave Yates and Al Doonan.

SALVATION ARMY FUND HITS NEW HIGH MARK

Lacking only $17,500 of the $50,000 campaign fund being raised for establishment of the new territorial headquarters here, the Salvation Army campaign committee struck its full stride Wednesday, when contributions totaling $10,000 were reported.

Including Wednesday's totals, the fund raised to date is $32,509.60, it was stated. With enthusiasm thus stimulated, team captains expect to rush over the quota set within the next few days.

With Chairman Preston S. Arkwright in charge, the report will be made Friday noon at the chamber of commerce, and it is hoped that the final report will be submitted by Monday.

By reason of the fact that personal contact with potential contributors has been impossible, Chairman Arkwright has asked the public to submit donations to Milton W. Bell, 55 Peachtree street, in the event solicitors fail to call.

"We of Atlanta are determined the Salvation Army shall have the $50,000 needed for the territorial headquarters," Mr. Arkwright declared to team workers Monday. "The practical demonstration of the work of the Salvation Army in the flooded area of the Mississippi has week long home necessity of assisting this great organization."

"The Salvation Army is ever ready to rush into emergency situations. I hope the people of Atlanta will not hesitate in offering aid to this campaign, for that reason alone."

Wednesday's contribution report was as follows:

H. G. King, $80; J. C. Kennedy, $50; Ed F. Bond, $12; Thomas L. Miller, $35; W. C. Winn, $10; A. F. Lively, $25; Clark Harrison, $52.50; J. L. Little, $30.50; Ensign Salverson, $314.25; Sergeant Saiter, $177.75; Colonel Walter Pearce, $180.88; Industrial, $294; special subscriptions, $7,650. Total, $9,907.88.

Caldwell-McFarland Wedding Is Beautiful Church Event

The wedding ceremony of Miss Mary Palmer Caldwell and Robert Montford McFarland, which took place Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, at Westminster Presbyterian church, assembled a large group of friends and relatives. Dr. J. W. Caldwell, father of the bride, performed the ceremony. As the guests assembled, Miss Edith Bartholomew rendered a lovely musical program, playing Liszt's "Dream of Love" and other appropriate numbers. Just before the ceremony Miss Carrie Scandrett sang "Because" and "All for You."

The bridal party entered to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin," and during the ceremony a beautiful selection was softly played. The church was decorated with palms and ferns, which formed a background for an arch electrically lighted and wound with smilax and roses. Tall candelabra holding single tapers and floor vases of white flowers interspersed the background of green smilax garlanded the windows and arches.

Bridal Attendants.
First to enter were the ushers, Willis Everett, Jr., Charles Hooper, Eugene Johnson and Henry McFarland. They were followed by the bridesmaids and groomsmen, who entered singly down either aisle. They were Miss Frances Bitzen, Miss Crawford Hinton, Miss Josephine Walker, Edwin Robinson, Hume McFarland and Wayne Rivers.

The bridesmaids' costumes were becoming models of yellow chiffon, fashioned bouffant style, the material shading from palest yellow to deepest orange tones. They carried graceful arm bouquets of golden Ophelia roses and sweet peas.

The junior bridesmaids, Eloise and Elizabeth Alexander, wore pale yellow georgette frocks with gold hemstitched ruffles. The maid of honor, Miss Hilda McConnell, entered wearing pale yellow taffeta, fashioned bouffant style and combined with tulle. Various shades of yellow, corresponding to the shades of yellow worn by the bridesmaids, she carried a shower of golden Ophelia roses and sweet peas.

The little flower girl, Catherine Sanders, preceded the bride, and was a lovely figure wearing flesh chiffon. Lucian Sanders acted as best man and with the groom was met at the altar by the bride and her uncle, Dr. T. A. Parker, who gave her in marriage.

Beautiful Bride.

The bride, who is of a slender blonde type, was unusually lovely in her wedding gown of white satin and lace, embroidered in pearls and crystals and fashioned princess style. Her veil was caught up with an old-fashioned pin worn by her grandmother and aunt in their weddings. She also wore seed pearls, which had been used by her grandmother. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony at the church there was an informal reception at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Caldwell, for relatives and a few close friends of the bride and groom.

The home was decorated with palms and ferns massed before the mantel in front of which the receiving line was formed. On the mantel were tall baskets showered with roses and valley lilies. Smilax was draped over the doors and windows and a profusion of spring flowers adorned the home throughout.

Receiving Party.
Assisting Dr. and Mrs. Caldwell in receiving were Mrs. W. D. Hooper, of Athens; Mrs. W. B. Sommerville, of New Orleans; and Miss Leslie Redmond, Miss Mary Ben Wright, Miss Louise Buchanan and Miss Rowena Ferguson served punch.

Miss Carrie Scandrett kept the bride's book. Among the out-of-town guests present were Mrs. W. B. Sommerville, of New Orleans; Mrs. R. C. McFarland, Ocean Springs, Miss.; Mrs. W. D. Hooper, Athens, and Dr. T. A. Parker, California.

Mrs. J. W. Caldwell, the bride's mother, was dressed in gray chiffon trimmed in lace. Mrs. R. M. McFarland, Sr., mother of the groom, wore black lace and satin.

Mrs. W. B. Sommerville, aunt of the bride, was dressed in black georgette and she wore a lavender corsage of valley lilies and roses. After the reception Mr. McFarland and his bride left for a three weeks' wedding trip to New York and Bermuda. Mrs. McFarland's traveling costume was of dark blue crepe. She wore a becoming close-fitting hat of black satin and ribbon.

The Story of Today's Opera

"Mignon"

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

The opera "Mignon" opens with a scene laid in the courtyard of a German man in a merry crowd drinking at wine tables while an old man wanders with a harp singing strange songs. The old man is Lothario, an Italian nobleman, who has lost his memory and does not even know his own name. Although he has forgotten her he is the father of Mignon, a charming young girl, who was stolen from her home when she was a child by a band of gypsies and is now dancing in the streets, followed by the gypsies to follow this course to earn a living.

The gypsy band is led by a mercenary of hand, who beats Mignon when she refuses to sing and dance before a group of actors sitting in a balcony. The old man, Lothario, tries to intervene in her behalf but is powerless. Just then Wilhelm, a student, enters and as he grasps the situation he forces Mignon, with a pistol, to release Mignon. The actors applaud and one of the young women with them, Filina, sends a note to Wilhelm asking him to join them.

Filina is an actress of designing men who attracts Wilhelm's attention much to the displeasure of Frederick, a young nobleman.

"Bugs" Girl.

Wilhelm is curious about the girl he rescued and asks her about herself. She remembers nothing of her childhood except that she was captured by a tribe of gypsies in a country which she describes in such a way that Wilhelm guesses it must be Italy. Wilhelm is moved by the girl's story and "buys" her from Filina. While the purchase is being completed in the Inn the old man, Lothario, bids the girl farewell, saying he must go south to "follow the swallow."

The actress Filina is invited by the Prince Tiffenbach to go to his castle with the players and any other guests she wishes. She invites Wilhelm to become a member of the party as a playmate and Wilhelm plans to leave Mignon behind, but the girl begs so hard to be taken that she is permitted to go disguised as a servant. The respectful attitude of Wilhelm to the girl causes her to fall madly in love with her new master.

In scene one of the second act Filina is shown sitting before a mirror in her boudoir thinking of Wilhelm, who has made a strong impression on her. Soon Wilhelm enters accompanied by Mignon. Filina makes a few caustic remarks about Mignon, but the girl does not resent them, but apparently falls asleep. With half closed lids she sees Wilhelm is paying court to the actress to whom he has been presented to him by Mignon herself.

Quarrel Over Woman.

Filina and Wilhelm depart and Mignon, dreaming that she may equal his charm the actress, tries on one of her gowns and paints and powders her face. Wilhelm and Frederick enter the room and Mignon scurries to cover. The men quarrel over Filina and draw their swords but Mignon rushes between them and prevents bloodshed. Mignon and Wilhelm then are left alone and Wilhelm tells her he must leave her. Mignon begins to weep, refuses money and is about to say farewell when Filina enters. Seeing the girl bedecked in her gown Filina makes some remarks which bring a flush of anger to Mignon's cheeks. The girl dashes into a cabinet, tears of the dress and reappears dressed in her gypsy costume, and then rushes out of the room.

Scene two of the second act is laid in a garden of the castle. Mignon, despairing over her love for Wilhelm, decides to drown herself. She is about to jump into the lake when she is stopped by the aged Lothario who, with sympathy to the girl as she expresses in her rage the hope that fire might descend and destroy the castle. At the word "fire" the old man starts curiously and goes off muttering to himself.

Filina, flushed with triumph over her performance in the castle, appears in the garden with her company and sings a gay aria. Mignon arrives on the scene and enquired at the sight of her Filina sends her into the house in search of a bouquet she has lost. Filina knows the bouquet is made of flowers which Mignon presented to Wilhelm and Mignon goes complacently although she sees the malice in the request. As soon as she leaves the cry "fire" is heard and it is found that the half-witted Lothario has taken the will talk of Mignon literally and has set fire to the castle. Wilhelm, in the excitement, realizes Mignon's danger and rushes into the castle and rescues her. He places the unconscious girl on a grassy knoll. She lies there still clasping the bunch of flowers in her hands.

Castle In Italy.

The third act discloses Count Lothario's castle in Italy. He has brought Mignon to this castle and Wilhelm, realizing his love for the girl, has followed them and is half inclined to purchase the castle. The young girl is recovering from her illness and the old man sits at her side singing lullabies. Wilhelm takes Lothario's place as a watcher at Mignon's bedside and tells of his love in a song. With feeble steps Mignon appears before Wilhelm and is greatly agitated, fearing that Filina is with him. Wilhelm soothes Mignon as she declares that only Lothario loves her. The old man, having returned to his home by some strange instinct, now reappears in his rightful character. His greatest regret is the loss of his daughter Separata. When this name pronounced Mignon memory of childhood days is refreshed and when Lothario shows her the jewels and prayer book of his lost daughter she unconsciously begins to sing the prayers of her early childhood. The father and child recognize the songs and they are restored to each other's arms. Wilhelm is admitted to the happy circle and there is a happy ending.

Lure of Opera Took Youth Away From Sanitarium

James Marshall, 15-year-old boy of Thomson, Ga., who was reported Tuesday as having fled from Piedmont sanitarium a few hours before he was due to be operated upon, was returned to that institution at 3:30 Wednesday morning in custody of a police officer, attendants reported.

According to attaches of the sanitarium, young Marshall smiled as he prepared for bed. "I just wanted to see one of those grand operas they're holding at the auditorium," he is reported as saying.

The postponed operation was scheduled for today.

Savannah, Ga., April 27.—(AP)—Providing cash bequests of $235,000, of which $182,000 is to charity, the will of Percival Randolph Cohen was probated in the court of ordinary at noon today.

The will provides for the erection of a hall and two homes as memorials to Mr. Cohen and the establishment of merit and scholarship funds for Bethesda. It is provided that a hall, to cost $50,000, be erected at Bethesda, to be known as Cohen Hall; a $40,000 home for children at Tybee and a $50,000 home for old men in Chatham county.

Cash bequests to individuals amount to $53,000 and the charitable organizations mentioned in the will and the individuals will share in the residue of the estate. More than three-quarters of the estate goes to charity.

Cash bequests include various sums ranging from $1,000 to $3,000 to relatives.

In Savannah the Little Sisters of the Poor are given $2,000; the Episcopal Orphans' Home for Girls, $2,000; the Female Orphan asylum, $2,000; Abraham's home, $4,000; Salvation army, $2,000; and Jewish Orphans Home of Atlanta, $4,000.

BARROW VETERANS ARE ENTERTAINED AT WINDER HOME

Winder, Ga., April 27.—(Special.) Memorial day was observed Tuesday by the chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, who gave the Confederate veterans of the county a spend-the-day party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Holsenbeck. At noon they were served dinner by Mrs. W. H. Quarterman, Mrs. H. H. Smith, Mrs. H. E. Holsenbeck, Mrs. T. H. Holsenbeck, Mrs. G. W. Gordon, Mrs. W. M. Holsenbeck and Mrs. H. J. Pledger, members of the local U. D. C. chapter.

In the afternoon they were taken in charge by C. M. Ferguson and carried to the cemetery, where they decorated the graves of their comrades. There are only 18 veterans now living in Barrow county and 14 of these gathered together today.

It was planned at today's reunion to have all the veterans of the county visit Stone Mountain on May 15 and see the memorial being carved on the mountain.

GALA FESTIVITIES PLANNED FOR OPERA-GOERS FRIDAY

Carnival Spirit Marks Today's Social Program

A spirit of carnival will mark the social activities of the day, when "A Night in Venice," staged with elaborate effect at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel with a water fete in the gardens, a masquerade in the ballroom and a buffet supper in the main dining room, will assemble hundreds of visitors and socially prominent persons of the city for the crowning event of the whirl of opera gaieties.

Members of the Opera club of Atlanta, who are the guarantors of the opera week, stars, officials and directors of the Metropolitan Opera company will be honor guests of the occasion, which will be given under the auspices of the Music Festival association.

"A Night in Venice" will immediately follow the presentation of "Mignon" by the Metropolitan Opera company at the auditorium at 8 o'clock. "Mignon" was revived in New York by this organization during the past season, which was the first time this beautiful score of Ambrose Thomas has been heard since 1908. It will mark the only appearance during the week of Marion Talley, the young American soprano who has made many friends in the city. Other stellar roles will be sung by Bori and Gigli. This will be the first opera of the week conducted by Louis Hasselmann.

Visitors to Be Honored.

Among the many prominent visitors for the opera season who will be honored at parties during the day are Mrs. Elsworth Hall, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Inman; Miss Adelaide Howell, the guest of Mrs. J. W. Wallace; Miss Sallie Herbert and Mrs. Thomas Herbert, the guests of Mrs. H. W. Beers; Mrs. William G. Cann, the guest of Mrs. Cam Dorsey and Mr. and Mrs. Argyle Parsons, the guests of Mrs. Lamar Rucker.

Misses Ramage Give Buffet Supper.

Misses Mary and Emily Ramage entertained at a buffet supper Wednesday evening at their home in Decatur, the occasion honoring Miss Isabelle Greer and Samuel Wood, whose marriage will be solemnized this evening at the First Presbyterian church in Decatur. The guests numbered 25.

Mrs. Inman Honors Visitors at Dinner.

A delightfully informal affair of Wednesday evening was the dinner given by Mrs. Frank Inman at her home on Peachtree road preceding the opera, "Turandot," honoring Mrs. Andrew Cooper, of Rome, Ga., who arrived Wednesday to be the guest of Mrs. Inman and to attend opera that evening.

Seminary Juniors Clear Over $200 For Tallulah

The junior class of Washington Seminary announces that the sum of $200 was cleared at the subscription night club dance given at the Biltmore hotel Monday evening, April 16. This fund will be contributed to the Tallulah Falls school, the project having been planned and executed by the juniors for this worthy cause. This is an industrial institution at which underprivileged mountain children are being educated, and the school is owned and maintained by the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs. It is located on Cherokee mountain, at Tallulah Falls, and the juniors at Washington Seminary have become deeply interested in the educational project.

The officers of the junior class are: Miss Leone Walker, president; Miss Jane Tway, vice president; Miss Hannah Sterne, secretary; Miss Hazel Stamps, treasurer.

Miss Dorothy Raine and Miss Hazel Stamps were in charge of publicity for the dance and Miss Linda Jernigan and Miss Hannah Sterne supervised the entertainment program. Mrs. Green Warren was in charge of the event, being assisted by the entire junior class membership.

Mrs. John K. Otley, of Atlanta, is president of the board of trustees for Tallulah school.

Hadassah's To Give Annual Bridge Party.

The Atlanta chapter Hadassah holds its annual spring bridge Tuesday, May 3, at 3 o'clock, at the Jewish Woman's club on the corner of Washington and Clark streets.

Mrs. C. W. Jordan and Mrs. R. W. Underwood are acting as hostesses for the Hadassah Mayonnaise company and will serve a delicious cold salad plate. Every one is urged to make reservations early by calling either Mrs. Joe Smolen at Walnut 3255, or Mrs. Julius Termanbaum at Henlock 6794. Players are kindly requested to bring their games and tables.

entertain the "daddies" in the school auditorium Friday evening, April 29, at 7:45 o'clock. Much interest is being manifested in the social hour of the evening. A musical program will be rendered by Mrs. M. Herzberg, Miss Helen Herzberg and Miss H. Farris. Several interesting readings will be given by Mrs. R. M. Williams. A cordial invitation is extended to all patrons of the school.

Mrs. Chester Johnson Will Sponsor Dance.

The West End Woman's club dance Thursday evening will be sponsored by Mrs. Chester W. Johnson, president. Special music has been arranged and dancing is from 9 to 12 o'clock.

A special feature will be a drawing contest, the two gentlemen winning the lucky numbers to be hon guests. Boys and girls holding cards are cordially invited to attend this special dance.

Chaperons: Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Ponder, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. DeFreese, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gullatt, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Nunnally, Mr. and Mrs. Charly R. Pite and Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Johnson.

Opera Sidelights

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

Perils of Brunswick stew, barbecued lamb, mint sauce and near-beer were braved by golden voiced singers of the Metropolitan Opera company Wednesday afternoon at the Druid Hills club.

Harry M. Atkinson, head of the Atlanta Music Festival association, played the role of chief demonstrator of eating barbecued meat, and with pretty Louise Hunter on one side and pretty Mae Motovska on the other side, he displayed the marvelous ambidexterity of a candidate for the legislature in serving the famous southern viands.

Walter Kirchhoff, who comes direct from the cooling drafts of real Wurzburg beer of Berlin breweries, gave a demonstration of a German drinking club, he displayed the marvelous ambidexterity of a candidate for the legislature in serving the famous southern viands.

Sweet voiced sopranos tussled with rib roasts, braised beef and laughed happily over the newness of this kind of food. Hungry tenors and avid baritone vied with contraltos in holding up their ends of the eating contest.

With the stars, flowers of Atlanta society and many buds and blossoms from other cities joined in enjoying the really fine barbecued meats prepared at the club and served by Marxist college caterers. A band played a tur-ful accompaniment to the eating feast and the affair was altogether pleasing.

After the barbecue, which was served on the lawn back of the golf club, guests adjourned to the ballroom where a dance was given.

Billy Guard, publicity director, enjoyed the barbecue with a group of newspaper men and recalled many other interesting barbecues given at the club during the seventeen years the Metropolitan Opera company has been visiting Atlanta.

Marion Talley, the young Kansas City soprano, arrived in Atlanta Wednesday in time to enjoy the big barbecue.

Memories of the Atlanta engagement of the Metropolitan Opera company

Two other girls of rare promise in this school, who are in Atlanta with the company, are Mae Motovska and Mollie Friedenthal. Both are beautiful girls, are thoroughly in love with their art and other members of the opera company predict bright futures for them as dancers.

Edward Johnson, American singer, who starred in "Turandot" Wednesday night, is as American as his name. He is a member of the Rotary club and was entertained by the Atlanta Rotary club at its regular luncheon Tuesday.

Mr. Johnson has shown that it is possible for an American singer to win the highest honors in music, using his real American name. At any rate, he ought to be popular with newspaper writers, as they can call him plain "Mister" Johnson without bothering their heads as to whether they should refer to him as "Signor," "Herr" or "Monsieur."

Armies of workmen were busy Wednesday afternoon on the terrace of the Biltmore hotel preparing for the big spectacle, "A Vesuvian Night," which will be staged for opera stars and visitors at midnight Thursday.

the stars own moving picture cameras and are seen here, there and everywhere taking snaps when anything odd or interesting occurs. And it looks like plenty of the odd and interesting is occurring around the Biltmore hotel terrace.

Some half a dozen or so local opera lovers have taken The Constitution to task for stating that Mrs. Galli-Curci had not sung "Traviata" here before. They said she sang this opera four years ago and they are right. But Mrs. Galli-Curci herself told the reporter she had not sung this opera here and that she sang in "Lucia" the last time she was in Atlanta. So if the fair madame herself lets her memory slip a combination political-police-big crop-financial-baseball-theatrical-grand opera-real estate-chamber of commerce-Civic club-Colored Fred Paxton dinners-good zounds-old Constitution subscribers-summer barbecue-bridge openings-murder trials-flogging cases-Carolina blue laws-electroconviction-prominent candidates announcing for office and general all around reporter and writer slips up on such an important matter as Galli-Curci's last role in Atlanta it looks like he may be excused for this one lapse.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Walsh are in New York at Commodore hotel awaiting the arrival of the S. S. "Ryndam," on which their son, George, is returning from the college cruise around the world. Floyd Hatcher, DuPre Jordan and George McMillan are other Atlanta boys arriving in New York on May 2. They will reach Atlanta Wednesday afternoon, May 4, enroute.

Colleen Moore Will Feature Children's Matinee

The Saturday morning matinee at the Howard theater will feature Colleen Moore in "It Must Be Love." The matinee starts at 9:30 o'clock with the admission 10 cents for juniors and 25 cents for adults.

"It Must Be Love," shows Colleen as the daughter of a delicatessen merchant in New York city. Ella hates the store with its smells and appearance and finally finds the way to romance. Popular with the children will be the scenes at Coney Island and the comedy which is abundant throughout.

Unique and interesting in the extreme is the prolog number this week. Mrs. Frank McCormack, better films president, has secured the prize winners in the "Harmonica Contest," staged by Manager Eggleston at the Georgia last week, and all eight will appear Saturday.

Comey features in addition render this a fine bill this week. The pictures have been reviewed in advance, and there will be 10 P. T. A. mothers, 10 Boy Scouts and 10 Girl Scouts to aid Mrs. John G. Courtney in seeing that everybody has the necessary chap Atlanta Wednesday afternoon, May 4, enroute.

Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company

THIS store has been in Atlanta more than 58 years. Its history is remarkably clear, its record unblemished by hurry-up sales, high pressure selling and just sales for sales' sake. It has never served the Great Gods Thor and Vulcan, always advertising without hammer and anvil.

Occasionally, it does hold sales. They are few and far between. Those sales it does hold are characterized by sincerity—they are real, and genuine.

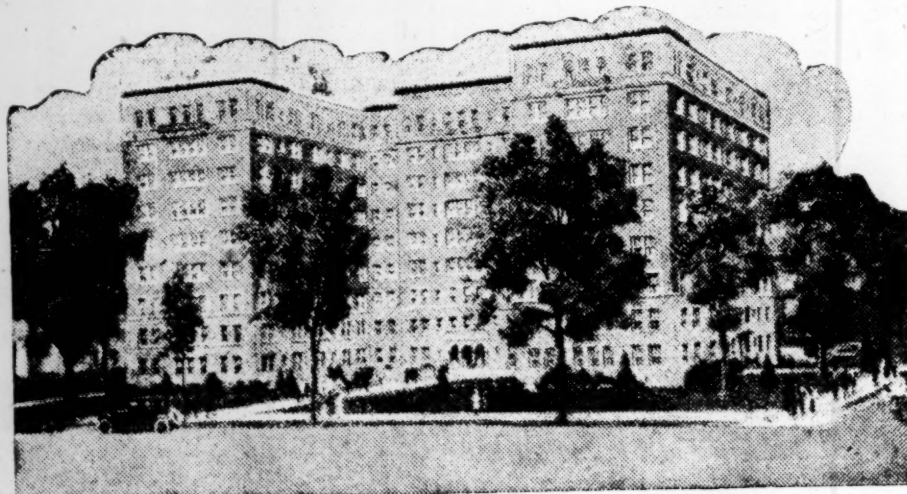

LET the remarks above serve to introduce the Seven May Days, beginning Monday next, May 2, continuing through Monday, May 9.

This event will reveal the Chamberlin organization at the height and pitch of its performance, the very pith and marrow of the store.

For weeks, even months, buyers have been everywhere to gather the prizes. Beautiful things, practical and good—all standard Chamberlin qualities at greatly lowered prices.

The whole store is involved—every department contributing its quota of matchless values.

Matchless, understand, and unbeatable!

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Opening advances in the cotton market today were followed by reactions, but prices firmed up again during the afternoon on additional flood news and unfavorable eastern belt crop advances. After selling, 15.20 and 15.25, July reacted to 15.32 and closed at 15.30, the general market closing steady at net advances of 12 to 15 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 7 to 13 points on buying, promoted by unexpected firm Liverpool cables and expectations of a bullish weekly review of crop conditions by the weather bureau. Demand was active, but it appeared to be readily supplied on the initial advance to 15.02 for May and 15.35 for October, and prices eased off during the forenoon.

The weekly report of the weather bureau came in for bullish comment, but appeared to be no more unfavorable than the trade had been led to expect by the daily weather news, and seemed to attract as much realizing as fresh buying. Probably it was offset by the very favorable character of the detailed weather reports for the day and the forecasts. At any rate, rallies of 6 or 8 points were followed by more or less irregularity and prices at one time were within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations.

May sold off to 14.90, October to 15.30, but the afternoon market was firmer on reports that the flooded conditions were extending in Mississippi. There were also reports that recent low temperatures had killed some young cotton.

MORRIS REPUDIATES CANDIDACY CHARGE

Tom C. Morris, former councilman from the fifth ward, Wednesday denied that he had been instrumental in putting Dr. William Cawthon in the councilman race in the fifth against Ellis B. Barrett, incumbent. This statement was issued for the purpose, Mr. Morris said, of refuting a charge to this effect launched Tuesday by Mr. Barrett.

"I rather think that Mr. Barrett's opposition came from a group of disappointed job seekers, who are said to have been promised jobs with the city government by Councilman Jim Bowden before he defeated me for that post last year," Mr. Morris said.

MANUFACTURERS PLAN BIG CLOSING SESSION

A short business session, followed by a motor trip, a luncheon at the Druid Hills Golf club, a golf tournament this afternoon at Druid Hills and a barbecue, will feature the closing session of the sixteenth annual convention of the Atlanta Furniture Manufacturers' association today. The convention has been in session at the Biltmore hotel for three days.

Among the speakers at the Wednesday sessions were: Ivan Allen, A. V. Eichman, of Decatur, Ill.; W. T. Hornes, of Baltimore, Md.; V. J. Fifer, of Quincy, Ill.; H. Malott, of Detroit, and C. A. Netzhammer, of Milwaukee, Wis.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

STEALTHILY THE LITTLE BAND MADE ITS WAY TOWARD THE ROAD CLOSE BY THE CHARGES RIVER WHERE THEY MADE THEIR AMBUSH IN THE TALL GRASS ON EACH SIDE OF THE HIGHWAY. AFTER THEY HAD LAIN IN AMBUSH FOR ABOUT AN HOUR, THE DISTANT TINKLING CAUSED BY THE TROTTERING OF THE CAVALIER CAME TROTTLING ALONG THE STILL NIGHT. THEN THEY NOTICED A SPANISH CAVALIER COME TROTTLING ALONG THE HIGHWAY IN FULL REGAL INCAUTIOUSLY. ONE OF THE MEN REVEALED HIMSELF. HE WAS QUICKLY DRAGGED DOWN AND THE CAVALIER GALLOPED AWAY.

Among the speakers at the Wednesday sessions were: Ivan Allen, A. V. Eichman, of Decatur, Ill.; W. T. Hornes, of Baltimore, Md.; V. J. Fifer, of Quincy, Ill.; H. Malott, of Detroit, and C. A. Netzhammer, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Sir Francis Drake

PRESENTLY THE MULE TRAIN CAME IN SIGHT. DRAKE GAVE THE SIGNAL AND HIS MEN SWARMED TO THE CAPTURE. THE SPANISHES OFFERED NO RESISTANCE. THEN DRAKE'S MEN BUSIED THEMSELVES AT EXAMINING THE MULE BAGS. TO THEIR ASTONISHMENT AND DISMAY THEY FOUND NOTHING BUT FOOD AND CAMP SUPPLIES. ONE OF THE CHIMARON SOLDIERS THEN EXPLAINED TO DRAKE WHAT PROBABLY TOOK PLACE. IT SEEMS THAT THE CAVALIER, HAVING SEEN THE SOLDIER, WARNED THE ONCOMING TREASURE TRAIL OF POSSIBLE DANGER SO THE CRAFTY TREASURER HELD BACK THE TREASURE MULES AND SENT FORWARD THE MULES BEARING THE FOOD SUPPLIES, FEELING THAT IF CAPTURED THEY WOULD MEAN LITTLE LOSS AND WOULD SERVE TO REVEAL THE AMBUSH AND SO IT FELT OUT. DRAKE AND HIS MEN WERE DISAPPOINTED BUT TOOK THE SITUATION PHILOSOPHICALLY AND TURNED TO CONSIDER THEIR NEXT MOVE.

Among the speakers at the Wednesday sessions were: Ivan Allen, A. V. Eichman, of Decatur, Ill.; W. T. Hornes, of Baltimore, Md.; V. J. Fifer, of Quincy, Ill.; H. Malott, of Detroit, and C. A. Netzhammer, of Milwaukee, Wis.

©1926 BY THE MCGRAW-HILL PUBLISHING CO.

FLAG-OFFICER, ANDREW H. FOOTE, U.S.N.

LATE IN 1861, FLAG-OFFICER ANDREW H.

FOOTE, U. S. N., WHO HAD BEEN IN CHARGE OF

THE BROOKLYN NAVY YARD, WAS GIVEN COM-

MAND OF THE FEDERAL GUNBOAT FLOTILLA

ON THE UPPER MISSISSIPPI AND OHIO AND AT

ONCE BEGAN OPERATIONS TO OPEN NAVIGATION

OF THE INLAND RIVERS.

The Inland Navy.

MOUND CITY, ILLINOIS, ON THE OHIO, A

SHORT DISTANCE ABOVE CAIRO, WAS SELECTED

AS A BASE FOR THE RIVER FLOTILLA AND

HERE A COMPLETE NAVY YARD WAS ESTAB-

LISHED WHERE THE VESSELS COULD BE

FITTED OUT OR REPAIRED.

TOMORROW—THE ADVANCE ON FORT HENRY.

HERE WERE A NUMBER OF SAILORS OF THE

REGULAR UNITED STATES NAVY ON THE RIVER

GUNBOATS, BUT FOR THE MOST PART THE CREWS

WERE MADE UP OF RECRUITS FROM THE INLAND

STATES. ALTHOUGH NAVAL LIFE WAS NEW TO

THEM, THESE "FRESHWATER" SAILORS WERE

DESTINED TO TAKE AN IMPORTANT PART IN
